Seek to Identify Abductors of Students Here

TWO WESLEYAN YOUTHS CHECK O.S.R. PHOTOS

HUNT 'VERY SMALL' MAN

Armed Bandit Told Couple of Being Paroled Recently on Drive to Marion.

BULLETIN

A former inmate of the Mansfield reformatory, paroled only two months ago, today was identified by Miss Clara Mae Kerr and Charles Hopkins, Ohio Wesleyan university students, as the "small man" who abducted them as they left a dance on the university campus Saturday night. The identification was made from "rogues gallery" pictures on file at the institution.

Two Ohio Wesleyan university students, victims of a bandit - kidnaping Saturday night at Delaware, today were at the Mansfield reformatory inspecting "rogues gallery" pictures in an attempt to identify their abductor.

Accompanied by Corporal H. W. Sowers of the Marion sub-station of the state highway patrol and Corporal Scott B. Radcliffe of the Mansfield sub-station, Miss Clara Mae Kerr, 22, of Steubenville, and Charles Hopkins, 20, of Lansing, Mich., were looking over pictures of paroled inmates in an effort to learn the identity of their kidnaper.

Told of Knifing Inmate.

Both students said they would be able to identify the "very small" man who told them during the abduction trip from Delaware to Marion that he had been recently paroled from the reformatory and at one time had been held in solitary confinement for knifing another inmate.

State highway patrolmen took over the search for the kidnaper Saturday night when Hopkins, son of Charles M. Hopkins, sr., Michigan state purchasing agent, notified Marion authorities that he had been kicked from his own car at the city limits after he and Miss Kerr had been forced to ride with the gunman to Marion. He

County Has Clean Slate In Traffic, Not One Accident

Richland county had a clean traffic slate over the week-end, with neither a fatality nor an injury reported despite heavy travel on main routes.

At the same time, deaths in traffic mishaps in the state dropped to five, the lowest mark in weeks, as most counties continued to set new safety records for the year.

Richland county's traffic deaths so far this year stand at five as compared with nine at the same time in 1937. With few exceptions, similar reductions have been reported in other sections of the state.

Among the week-end fatalities in the northern half of Ohio were Charles W. Kidd, 18, who was killed when an automobile crashed into a Pennsylvania freight train at Bellevue, and Gerhardt H. Jaeger, 45, who was struck by an automobile at Toledo.

At Youngstown, William Illasheck, 56, was fatally injured when hit by a trolley bus, and Horatio Pritner, 77, was killed by an automobile in Columbus.

Come and get it! News item—farmer "streamlines" sales activity! The modern farmer no longer loses a day's valuable time in spring taking calves, ewes, etc., to market. He "want" advertises and the CASH buyers come to him. An inexpensive Want Ad is a time-saver and money-maker. That they are profitable is proved by the large number that use them.

SCHUSCHNIGG DISAPPEARS

Fate of Former Chancellor in Doubt; Nazis Maintain Silence on Status.

By ALFRED TRYNAUER
(INS Staff Correspondent)

PARIS—Kurt Schuschnigg, last chancellor of independent Austria, has disappeared.

Such was the information given this correspondent by unimpeachable Austrian emigree sources here today and intensive investigation failed to disclose his whereabouts.

All that could be learned was that he apparently is no longer at Belvedere palace where he has been held in "protective custody" since Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler marched into Austria on March 12 and took that ancient nation into his "Greater Germany."

News of his disappearance recalled recent reports that the

DAWES STRICKEN

Ex-Vice President Under Knife in New York Hospital.

NEW YORK —(AP)— Roosevelt hospital officials disclosed today that Brig. Gen. Charles Gates Dawes, former vice president who was taken suddenly ill yesterday, had been operated on for "acute suppurative appendicitis."

Dawes, who will be 73 on Aug. 27, came to New York from Chicago to attend the wedding of Francis Warren Pershing, son of Gen. John J. Pershing, and Muriel Bache Richards.

He was in his suite at the Waldorf-Astoria when he was stricken, and was removed at once to the hospital.

At 9 o'clock this morning a nurse at the hospital said the general's condition was "as good as could be expected."

HIT BY BLAZE

Two Warehouses Destroyed in Fire At Hamilton; One Hurt.

HAMILTON—(INS)—Fire believed to be of incendiary origin today destroyed two warehouses of A. Benzing and Sons, general contractors, at a loss of $10,000. One fireman was slightly injured in a fall.

Firemen said the Benzing blaze was the ninth in five weeks believed to have been the work of arsonists.

TRUCK-AUTO CRASH FATAL

WEST UNION —(INS)— Funeral arrangements were made today for Harold Johnson, 27, who died of a broken neck and crushed head after his automobile sideswiped a truck and crashed into a parked car.

Relays Performers Beat Marks of College Teams

The best collegiate track and field performers in the country didn't have a thing on some of the schoolboys who displayed their wares in the 12th Mansfield Relays Saturday.

Eleven new records were written into the books Saturday as more than 1,200 athletes, representing 85 schools of six states, went through their paces in front of a record-breaking crowd estimated at 5,000, and many of the marks made at Stadium field bettered the achievements of the collegians who put on athletic shows in other parts of the country.

Better Than Big Ten.

For instance, three of the marks set up in the quadrangular meet at Bloomington, Ind., Saturday were eclipsed by athletes competing here.

Mansfield's own John Linta outvaulted the best stars from Ohio State, Michigan, Notre Dame and Indiana, all perennial track powers, at Bloomington.

Linta's height of 12 feet, 8½ inches, which established a new Relays record, was two and a half inches higher than the marks made by Dean and Laughton of Notre Dame and Kinsley of Michigan, who finished in a triple tie at Bloomington at 12 feet, 6 inches.

3 KILLERS DIE

Pay With Lives for Pennsy 'Lover's Lane' Slaying.

BELLEFONTE, Pa. — (AP) — Three men died in Pennsylvania's oaken electric chair early today for a "lover's lane" hold-up slaying that netted them 41 cents.

They were Edward Rose and John Oreszak, both 21, and Theodore Duminiak, 20, all of Chester, Pa., members of a gang which the judge who condemned them to die called "the worst that ever came out of Chester."

The state charged the trio surprised Floyd Tranon, 38, and a girl friend parked in a car on a lonely road near Chester in July, 1936. They shot Tranon as he attempted to flee after surrendering all his money and then attacked Tranon's companion.

METCALF RUNS FOR NEW POST

Senate 'Graft Hunter' to Seek G. O. P. Nomination for Attorney General.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — Sen. Verner E. Metcalf, one of the leaders in the Ohio senate's investigation of alleged graft in the state government, announced today his candidacy for the Republican nomination for attorney general.

He said that voters told him he could, as attorney general, disclose irregularities and "compel a return to honest and efficient state government."

The work begun by the investigating committe, which went out of existence Feb. 28, "is only started," Metcalf said. "It must be relentlessly pursued to a logical and successful conclusion."

His announcement said:

"The attorney general is not bound to represent dishonest elective or appointive state officials, to defend vicious contracts and questionable practices or the unlawful and reprehensible acts of political parasites."

Metcalf is serving his second term in the senate and is its minority floor leader. He previously served two terms as prosecutor in Washington county.

Wooden Nickels Like This One Are Good

Ten thousand wooden nickels, one of which is pictured here, will go into circulation tomorrow in Mansfield and Richland county in promoting the county's observance next Monday of the 150th anniversary of the founding of the Northwest territory. Printed in green ink on thin wood strips, the nickels are slightly smaller than United States paper money and are as light as paper. They will be issued as change by city and county business firms and redeemed by most stores or at celebration headquarters in the Chamber of Commerce rooms at five cents each until next Monday night. Funds obtained from those not redeemed will help finance the city and county observance program.

CALLS CZECH MINISTERS IN NAZI CRISIS

SEE REQUESTS REJECTED

Government Hears Henlein Say Students Agree With Program of Hitler.

(By United Press)

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia—Premier Milan Hodza called the cabinet into emergency session today to consider a threatened crisis over demands of Czechoslovakia's German minority for revision of foreign and domestic policies.

A speech by Konrad Henlein, German minority leader, left little hope for compromise between the government and its pro-Nazi "Sudeten" German party, it was said in well informed quarters.

It was generally predicted that the government would find it impossible to accept Henlein's demands and that a crisis was imminent.

Would Arouse Hitler.

Anxiety was even more acute because of reports that Czech frontier guards had shot at a Polish balloon. Confirmation of these reports would mean that the cabinet would have to consider not only the "protective" interest of the new greater Germany, with 75,000,000 population over Czechoslovakia's 8,230,000 "Sudeten" Germans, but an incident involving Poland, with a population of 32,000,000 and a newly stimulated interest in the Polish minority of 82,000 in Czechoslovakia.

Thus this post-war republic of 15,000,000 people had to consider the "protective" interest, as Germans call it, of three countries population totals 116,000,000 and which surround it but for its eastern tip bordering on Roumania.

Talks At Congress.

Henlein made his speech yesterday at a congress of the Sudeten German party, so called because the German minority centers in the Sudeten mountain area on the German frontier.

He demanded complete revision of foreign and domestic policy and said frankly that Sudeten Germans agreed with Nazi conceptions. Foreign diplomats regarded it as the boldest of a series of bold speeches asserting the claim of Sudeten Germans to special concessions.

PROBES BLAST

Virginia Opens Inquiry in Mine Tragedy Killing 45.

HANGER, Va. — (UP) — Thomas B. Morton, Virginia labor commissioner, today began an investigation of the blast in a Keen Mountain coal mine Friday which killed 45 miners.

The Red Jacket Coal company, operators of the mine, also sent investigators into the shattered tunnels, although company officials said they were convinced that only an explosion of coal dust could have caused the blast.

The mine, which had been operating only a few months, was completely merchanized.

Most of the charred and unrecognizable bodies of the victims had been sent to nearby communities for burial.

Sees Son At Last-- In Newsreel

It wasn't the sight of John Henry, jr., being welcomed home from the navy games in the Pacific by his wife and baby that "upset" Mrs. Stevens.

"Imagine," she exclaimed, "my fifth grandchild and I haven't heard about it yet."

ISSUE WOODEN 'NICKELS' FOR PIONEER WEEK

Proceeds From Souvenirs to Finance City's Northwest Territory Observance.

The time-worn admonition against the acceptance of "wooden nickels" won't hold up in Mansfield and Richland county this week.

Ten thousand of the nickels—worth five cents each in good American money—will be distributed tomorrow morning in the city and county by the Northwest territory observance committee.

Proceeds from the wooden money, which was designed as souvenirs for the county's Northwest territory celebration, will be used to finance the observance program here one week from today.

Thin Wood Sheets.

The nickels, cut from thin wood sheets, are really not nickels at all, but 2½ by 5½ inch notes, slightly smaller than the United States paper money.

They will go out to business firms in the city and county and will be issued as change to persons who want them. They will be redeemed at their face value by most stores until 5 p. m. Monday, May 2.

The wooden money bears a picture of Edward Tiffin, the first Ohio governor, and signatures of John Correll, general chairman, and Paul M. Eliot, treasurer, of the county observance committee, on their face. On the other side are pictures of the old Mansfield blockhouse and a pioneer covered wagon caravan.

Plans for the county-wide observance of the 150th anniversary of the founding of the Northwest Territory were nearing completion today and the city began to take on a holiday atmosphere. Colorful bunting was strung from a number of downtown buildings, and Central park's fountain and cannons were dressed up in aluminum and black paint.

City park and street department employes, under the direction of Jacob Rahm, parks superintendent, began work this morning on the pioneer stockades which will surround the four cannons in Central park.

Highlights of the city and county celebration next Monday will

BLAMES SCHOOL OUSTER ON BOOK

Superintendent Says 'Postman Always Rings Twice' Caused Fuss.

URBANA — (AP) — Supt. H. F. Tennant of the centralized school at nearby Cable said today he was not rehired because of a controversy with school board members over his possessing a novel they held was objectionable.

Tennant said he received the book, "The Postman Always Rings Twice," as a premium with a magazine subscription and that the volume disappeared from his desk.

Board members called a special meeting to investigate rumors that the book was being read by school students and then voted three to two Tennant said, against giving him a contract for next year.

HEAD SEVERED

Decapitated, Armless Woman Found In Lake Ontario Waters.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y.—(UP)—Oswego county authorities notified Cleveland officials today of the discovery of a decapitated and armless body of a woman on the beach of Lake Ontario.

Since Cleveland is on Lake Erie which flows into Lake Ontario, officials entertained the possibility that the woman might have been a victim of the mysterious "mad butcher of Kingsbury run."

ROOSEVELT IN REQUEST FOR QUICK ACTION

Statement Asks Lawmakers to Abolish Exemptions on Bond Issues, Government Pay.

AMENDMENT NOT NEEDED

'Prompt' Consideration Comes as Surprise to Legislators Eyeing Adjournment.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt asked congress today to remove "promptly" tax exemptions on income from all future government bond issues—federal, state and local—and on all government salaries.

Existing exemptions, he said, resulted from judicial decisions and could be eliminated by "a short and simple statute" which he predicted the courts would uphold.

Discusses Amendment.

Some advocates of ending such exemptions have claimed a constitutional amendment would be necessary because of judicial decisions holding the federal government could not tax state bonds, nor the state government federal bonds.

Mr. Roosevelt said, however, that recent decisions indicated the courts were following a different line of thought from that which produced the earlier rulings.

The president's request for "prompt" action came as a surprise to many legislators and added to the problems of administration leaders trying to reach adjournment by the latter part of May.

Prior to receipt of the message, some informed members of congress had predicted it would ask only a study of the problem.

The president asserted exemption of securities from taxes had created "a vast reservoir of tax exempt securities in the hands of the very persons who equitably should not be relieved of taxes on their income."

"This reservoir now constitutes a serious menace to the fiscal systems of both the states and the nation," he added.

'Serious Defect'.

Similarly, he said, tax exemptions claimed by officers and employes of state and local governments had become "a serious defect in the federal sytems of the states and the nation, for they rely increasingly upon graduated income taxes for their revenues."

Treasury experts have estimated that removal of security and salary exemptions would produce income of $155,000,000 annually for the federal government on the basis of present security issues and under present tax laws.

The president said that "for more than 20 years secretaries of the treasury have reported to the

Simone's Ex-Secretary Says There'll Be Plenty of Fire.

HOLLYWOOD —(U.P.)— Sandra Martin, 32-year-old former secretary to the French actress, Simone Simon, said today that she was considering bringing a suit for accounting against Miss Simon in connection with the alleged disappearance of $16,000 from the actress' bank funds.

"There is a lot more to this thing than has come out," Mrs. Martin said. "There will be plenty of fireworks at the proper time."

Mrs. Martin declined to elaborate on her statement that she might file suit against Miss Simon. The actress told District Attorney Buron Fitts that her bank funds decreased while she was in Europe last summer.

TWO WOUNDED

Toledoan Thought Neighbors Were 'Talking About Him.'

TOLEDO—(AP)—Under the delusion that his neighbors had been talking about him, Vincent Lewandowski, 51, ran amuck with a shotgun early today, critically wounded his stepson, Joseph Posdnik Lewandowski, 21, and also shot a neighbor, Mrs. Louise Baumgartner, 30.

The young man was shot in the chest and arm and attendants at Toledo hospital said his condition was critical.

Girl Wonders If She Must Keep Word

By VIRGINIA LEE

It is hard to give up our own way, isn't it? We want what we want when we want it, and we want to do what we want to and no opposition. We can always find perfectly good arguments, too, to back up anything we may want to do, but somehow those same arguments don't mean a thing when other people use them.

To make myself clear and get down to cases, here is a young girl who never has "gone steady" with any one boy until lately. She has the name of being fickle. She is evidently a very attractive young person and has numerous boy friends.

Now she, of her own accord, she writes, told her present boy friend that she wouldn't go out with other boys, and he promised he wouldn't date any other girl.

Now our young friend, FICKLE JOYCE, wants very much to go to a show with another boy—one she has known for some time, but for whom she cares nothing in particular—and she is puzzled as to whether she should go or not. Her postscript is illuminating:

"If my boy friend went out on me I would be so hurt I just wouldn't know what to do and I would give back his ring and quit him."

Then why do you think you should even consider going out with another boy, Joyce? You have given your promise to go with no other boys. Doesn't such a promise mean anything to you? Why would you risk hurting a boy you do like just to go out with one you admittedly do not care much for? It sounds silly to me, quite aside from the fact that it would be breaking your promise.

My answer may be a little late in reaching you, but I hope you didn't go out with this other boy. A promise is a promise, and an honorable person abides by his word. You can tell how your boy friend would feel if you did go out with the other chap by your own feelings if he should go out with someone else.

No, six months is not a great difference in people's ages, even if you are that much older than the boy. I do think that a boy and girl of 19 are too young to get married. A man should at least be of age, and both should be when they take that important step.

My Neighbor Says:

Eggs do not require the coldest place in mechanical refrigerators. The warmest spot will do. It is a mistake to think that egg whites beat better when cold. When whites are to be whipped stiff, it is better to remove the eggs from the refrigerator for a short time before using to obtain the greatest bulk.

"Hollowed out" bananas, peaches or other good-sized fruits make edible containers for holding chilled diced fruit for salads or desserts. When a "fancier" food is desired, try some of these. The younger persons usually enjoy making these dainties.

The beginning of the season is the time to kill weeds in your garden. They are tender then and the soil around them can be cultivated deeper now than later when vegetables and flowers begin to grow in the soil.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"The Authority on Authorities"

MAKING A KING GOOD

IF YOU HOLD two guards to a king of trumps and the twice-guarded ace sits over it in the dummy, your nice big honor seems doomed, since you expect the declarer to hold the immediately lower ones at your right. But he cannot catch your king in a finesse if you remove one of those guards from the ace. The way to do that is to make him ruff in the dummy. Then your king is ready for the third round of the suit.

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable).

Here South bid 1-Heart, West 2-Diamonds, North 3-Clubs. East passed, South called 3-Hearts and North 4-Hearts.

West cashed the diamonds K and Q, and having seen the doubleton in dummy, switched to the spade J, which South won with the K. The heart Q was led and allowed to ride, and when the finesse proved successful, was followed by the J, so that on the third round the A dropped West's K. Before drawing the last trump, South finessed the club J and came to his hand with the spade A. After cashing the club A, he drew the last heart, and on the club K tossed the losing diamond, so that he made five odd.

Had West continued a third diamond, declarer would have had to ruff in dummy, so that the heart K would have surely taken a trick, keeping the contract to four.

Tomorrow's Problem.

(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable).

What is the best bidding on this deal

Do not plant seeds too deep.. As soon as the ground can be worked nicely make a good seed bed, then make a small furrow and plant seeds in the bottom of it. Cover seeds slightly and as plants grow fill in with dirt until the furrow is level with the rest of the garden.

Household Hints

By MRS. MARY MORTON

Menu Hint.

Lima Beans With Pork Chops
Scalloped Cabbage
Buttered Beets
Pineapple Cottage Cheese Salad
Gum Drop Squares Coffee

Gum drop squares are a gay little confection which will brighten up any meal, or between meal snacks.

Today's Recipes.

LIMA BEANS WITH PORK CHOPS — One-half pound dry lima beans, one teaspoon salt, one tablespoon brown sugar, one-fourth teaspoon mustard, one-third cup tomato catsup, one tablespoon finely chopped onion, three or four pork chops. Soak beans overnight in cold water to cover. The next morning drain and cover with hot water. Heat to boiling, simmer 30 to 40 minutes. Drain, saving liquid. Combine salt, brown sugar, mustard and catsup. Stir into beans. Turn into a greased baking dish. Add bean liquor to moisten. Add onion. Rub pork chops with salt and pepper, place over beans, bake in a hot oven until chops are browned on top, then turn, reduce heat and bake slowly until chops and beans are tender, about one hour.

GUM DROP SQUARES — Two cups brown sugar, one-half cup shortening, four eggs, one cup milk, three cups flour, one teaspono baking powder, one teaspoon salt or less, one pound gum drops cut fine, one cup nut meats, cut fine. A variety of colors in the gum drops adds to the attractiveness. Mix in usual way and bake on cookie sheet about 24 minutes, or 40 minutes in oven set at 350, having it 350 to begin. Cut into squares or oblongs while still hot. Remove from pan at once and ice if desired with confectioner's sugar mixed with small piece of butter and juice of one orange.

SHEPHERD'S PIE—Six medium potatoes, one-third cup irradiated evaporated milk and one-third cup water from potatoes, mixed, two cups leftover beef or canned roast beef, two tablespoons fat, two tablespoons flour, two cups hot water, salt and pepper. Pare potatoes. Cut into quarters or eighths and boil in only enough salted water to prevent scorching. When tender, drain and mash. Add enough diluted milk to moisten. Beat until light and fluffy. Place beef in saucepan in which fat has been melted. (Fat from roast beef gives an excellent flavor.) Sprinkle with flour and stir to blend well.. Add water, salt and pepper to beef and cook slowly until gravy thickens slightly. Pour into baking dish. Drop mashed potato by spoonfuls over top. Serve at once, or set in a moderate oven (350 F.) to brown top. Creamed salmon or tuna may be used in place of the beef gravy. Serves six to eight.

Cinnamon a Flavor.

It looks as if cinnamon were fast becoming America's favorite flavor, for last year it took eleven and a half million ponds of this spice to supply the needs of the United States alone. This was a good million pounds more than was required in the previous year, so it looks as if cinnamon buns and cinnamon cakes and cinnamon desserts were filling the national sweet tooth.

Sweets are not the only foods for which cinanmon is an ideal flavor. It is becoming increasingly popular in beverages, especially in hot drinks such as Ski-Ball (hot tea and spices), chocolate, and after-dinner coffee in all of which a tall stick of cinnamon serves as a muddler as well as an aromatic flavoring.

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, April 26.

ACCORDING TO the lunar aspects influencing this day, there may be very exciting developments of a sudden and surprising nature, probably in connection with the breaking up of some stagnant situations or frustrating circumstances. These may entail travel or change, with certain hidden or secret factors. It might be well to be alert to confusing factors that demand very wise decisions as they may have vital reactions on the future. Confer with elders.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a very important year, in which wise decisions on suddenly-presented problems may have critical bearing on future welfare. Take counsel with elders. Change, travel or removal loom. Complicated or chaotic conditions call for vigilance and wisdom. Old, stagnant and impeding matters may break up.

A child born on this day may be fond of change, travel and adventure, although it may be practical, industrious and trustworthy. It may have much originality and constructive ability in unusual lines.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

Mr. Milner was triumphant gaiety personified as, accompanied by a mechanic, he came into our hotel suite. But I was very sure that both chagrin and resentment against me were concealed beneath his debonair mien.

"Behold, the miracle worker!" he said, pointing to himself dramatically. Then he gave a crisp order to the mechanic, who immediately set to work upon the door chains.

"And now," he said, with a quick glance at his watch, "will you be so kind as to excuse me? The man has full instructions to do whatever you wish. Or," with meticulous courtesy, "is there something more I can do for you?"

"Yes, there is," I said with decision. "Something which I omitted to mention when we were speaking of the chains. Will you kindly look at this paneling?"

I gestured toward the nearer of the two bedrooms, and walked toward it without looking to see whether or not he were following me. But he must have been close at my heels, for when I turned in front of the paneling, he was close beside me.

Madge Insistent.

"This is virtually a door," I said pointing to it.

"It used to be," he interrupted me hastily, "but it is securely nailed now."

"I am sorry to be insistent," I said perfunctorily, "but if I stay, this door must also be given a night chain."

"It shall be done," he said, and, turning, gestured me to precede him. When we had reached the hall again he directed the mechanic to put a chain on the door I had indicated.

"And now, may I o?" he said manfestly, holdng his frayed temper together with an effort.

"And now, may I go?" he said

Demands Satisfaction.

"That this mechanic completes his work to my satisfaction," I said with decision. "After you are gone I do not wish him to discover that he is missing tools or material which will delay his job until the morrow. I need not tell you that if he does, no matter how cogent the excuse, we shal leave immediately."

"I shall take him outside to impress that fact upon him," he said. "I really cannot do justice to the subject with ordinary language."

"As you wish," I told him, and he beckoned the mechanic out onto the hall, giving us a final formal bow before leaving himself.

"Didn't I tell you, doubting Thomasina?" Mary demanded. "We'll get to our theater after all."

"It looks that way," I conceded, " but I'm not stirring a step from here until those chains are all in place."

" 'Nobody asked you to, sir'," she caroled. "All I ask is that you get ready, so we won't have to wait a minute after the man does get done."

"I'll fly," I told her smiling, and departed for my room. But a minute later I heard Mary's voice addressing the mechanic.

Bribes Mechanic.

"Is it worth a dollar to you to hurry this job as fast as you can and do it thoroughly?" she asked. and I mentally quoted the old saw about butter melting in her mouth.

"I want to go to the theater," she went on, and I knew that she was flashing her best smile upon the man, and Mary's best smile is something to see. "But my aunt won't stir a step from here until the last one of the chains is on."

"I'll do my best," the man replied. "It ought not to take long. Thank you, Miss," and I knew that the dollar had changed hands.

That he was doing his best was immediately evident, and it was only a very short time after I came back into the room before he offered his finished work for my inspection. Meticulously I examined each chain, pulling with all my might upon each one, and then testing each again by going into the hall and pushing as hard as possible against the door when Mary had opened it the length of the chain.

"Well!" Mary said at the end of the last test with a touch of impatience, "what's the verdict?"

Stark Drama Filmed.

If there is anything that "Test Pilot" lacks to make it 100 per cent screen entertainment, it isn't visible to the naked eye. All of the factors that go into the making of a fine picture are combined in this screen drama at the Ohio. The air pictures are among the most thrilling ever caught by a camera, what with 823 U. S. army planes forming a background for the stunt flyers. The cast—Clark Gable, Myrna Loy, Spencer Tracy and Lionel Barrymore—needs no comment. The story is gay, reckless romance and stark tragedy, with a triangle in which Gable is a reckles, hard drinking, brilliant test pilot, Miss Loy the woman who loves him and tries to steady him, and Tracy in a role cut to his measure. He is the other angle of the triangle, in love with his friend's wife and presenting a study in repression and sacrifice. "Test Pilot" is at the Ohio.

Madison Presents Drama.

If "The Girl of the Golden West" lacks in convincing drama as a musical, it makes up for it with a musical score by Romberg and Kahn in which there are more than the usual number of melodious tunes. The Nelson Eddy-Jeanette MacDonald combination is distinguished for its musical ability anyway, and no one pays much attention to other phases of a film in which they appear. The background of the Sierra Madre mountains is one of the distinguishing features of the film. Against them is enacted the drama that David Belasco conceived more than 30 years ago. Most of the action is laid in the Polka saloon during the gold strike in California, with Miss MacDonald as the girl and Eddy as Ramerez, the colorful bandit. Leo Carrillo, Walter Pidgeon and Buddy Ebsen have major supporting roles.

* * *

Wallace Beery Returns.

A role tailored to fit Wallace Beery is "Old Hutch," one of the popular star's best roles in the last few years and which returns to the Majestic for three days, starting Tuesday. Beery plays a no-good loafer, one step above a tramp, only because he has a wife and children. He spends his time fishing until finding buried treasure gives him a new ambition to spruce up and be something. Eric Linden and Cecelia Parker, who were with Beery in "Ah Wilderness," have the romantic leads. Ralph Forbes and Alice Moore in "Woman Against the World," is the second feature.

* * *

"Topper" At Ritz.

For three days, starting tomorrow, the Ritz offers the brilliant and whimsical comedy "Topper," with Cary Grant, Constance Bennett, Roland Young, and Billie Burke. This will be recalled as the novel in which a gay young couple are killed in an auto wreck and come back to earth to have a rollicking time by haunting their old friends and lifting a little henpecked man out of the rut of his life. It's gay comedy, and does not touch on the serious side of spiritualism. "Back In Circulation," with Joan Blondell and Pat O'Brien, with Margaret Lindsay in support, is offered on the same bill.

Considerate Manner Most Important

By EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: Some new neighbors have moved into our vicinity and I shall leave our cards for them. I know from your book that this is the thing to do, but there is one question I would like to have you straighten out for me. That is, if I find this newcomer at home, why should I then leave cards?

Answer: You leave your cards, or possibly even hand them to her if she is at home, so that she will know your full name. The first reason for this is that people who remember names plainly are very rare, and the second is that she may have no way of knowing which Mrs. Mehune you are, unless you are the only one of that name in the telephone book. Even then there might be another name sounding very much like yours and spelled differently. But leaving your husband's card with your own, will tell her that you have a husband, what your full name is and its proper spelling, and the right address.

* * *

Dear Mrs. Post: How should one of the members of the family answer the telephone when the voice at the other end asks for some one who is not in at the time? What I really mean is, do you think it impolite to ask who is calling so the absent one can be told later when she returns?

Answer: It is always polite to ask who is calling. In other words, you say "Mary is not at home" or "Miss Smith is not at home, may I take a message?" Even though you recognize the voice you do not greet that person unless it is some one who is also an intimate friend of your own. That is, mothers and fathers, uncles and aunts and grandmothers answering the telephone should never press young people to declare themselves. When Mary returns, you give the message exactly as you took it. Remember one thing, that this is contrary to business etiquette which considers it proper, because necessary, to ask the inquirer's name.

A little vinegar added to the water in which corned beef is cooked will make the corned beef more tender.

Hints on How to Make Wedding Perfect.

Two Lovely Possibilities.

How to have the wedding you've always dreamed of. Budget expenses, settle etiquette questions ahead to be radiantly carefree when the great day comes.

First thought is your costume. If the ceremony's formal, you can be dramatic in gleaming satin or softly-draped crepe with a train of tulle or starched chiffon. Or look exquisitely fragile in misty clouds of marquisette over white taffeta. Wear a fascinating little hat made entirely of flowers. The groom always wears a black or oxford gray cutaway for a formal day-time ceremony.

For a lovely informal wedding in your own garden or living-room, why not return to an enchanting style of your grandmother's day? Close-fitting bodice, tiny puffed sleeves, bouffant organdy skirt. Carry an armload of old-fashioned flowers. And the groom? He wears an all-white linen suit with white shoes.

Our 32-page booklet tells you how to plan your wedding smoothly, happily, economically. Formal and informal, daytime and evening ceremonies.

Send 10c for your copy of "Planning and Budgeting Your Wedding" to The Mansfield News-Journal Home Service, 635 Sixth Ave., New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your Name, Address and the Name of booklet.

Sunday Menu Includes Fresh Things

By IRENE OBERLIN
Home Service Division of the Ohio Public Service Company.

With the coming of spring, we are so glad for the fruits and vegetables that can now be had at more reasonable prices and meal planning can be made more interesting. This Sunday dinner I have planned is one that your family will enjoy.

Cream of Corn Soup
With Minced Parsley
Saltines Olives
Roast Leg of Lamb Mint Jelly
New Potatoes in Butter
Fresh Asparagus With
Hollaindaise Sauce
Lettuce With Cream Cheese
Dressing
Strawberry Shortcake Coffee

Cream of Corn Soup.

White sauce foundation.
3 tablespoons butter
4 tablespoons flour
Seasoning
2 cups scalded milk
2 cups cooked corn seasoned with thinly sliced onion.

Roast Leg of Lamb.

Bake at 325 degrees, 35 minutes per pound. Cut a clove of garlic and rub over lamb. Make a paste of 3 tablespoons flour, 4 tablespoons butter and seasonings and rub over leg of lamb. Roast in shallow pan, adding ¼ cup water. Serve with mint jelly.

Shortcake Recipe.

2 cups flour
2 tablespoons sugar
4 tablespoons baking powder
1 egg
¾ cup milk
½ teaspoon salt
6 tablespoons butter.

Cut butter into dry ingredients, add beaten egg with milk. This may be baked as individual cakes or one large one which can be split and filled with berries and topped with whipping cream and berries.

Strawberry Bavarian Cream.

2 tablspoons gelatin
¼ cup cold water
½ cup fruit juice
1½ cups crushed berries
1½ cups cream

Soak gelatin in cold water and dissolve in (boil) boiling fruit uice. Cool. Sweeten the berries to taste, about ½ cup sugar, add fruit and place in refrigerator to chill, stirring occasionally. When mixture begins to thicken fold in cream (whipped). Return to the refrigerator after turning into a mold and when serving garnish with whole strawberries and whipping cream.

Strawberry Gelatin Pie.

1 qt. strawberries
⅔ cup sugar
Juice of one orange
1 tablespoon lemon juice
⅛ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon gelatin
¼ cup cold water
½ pint cream
¼ cup powdered sugar
6 or 8 whole berries

Wash and drain berries reserving 8. Crush or cut berries, add the orange juice, sugar, lemon juice and salt. Dissolve thoroughly. Soak the gelatin in cold water and dissolve over hot water, add to the strawberry mixture and chill until it begins to thicken. Pour into a pastry shell and chill three to four hours. When ready to serve, garnish with whipped cream and strawberries.

Rhubarb and Raisin Pie.

2 cups rhubarb
1 cup raisins
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
4 tablespoons flour

Combine the sugar, flour and beaten eggs; to this add the cut rhubarb and raisins, mixing well. Bake pie 30 to 40 minutes at 450.

Ham Scores As Buffet Favorite

Baked ham, diagonally scored and studded with cloves, is a tempting meat to serve at the informal buffet supper. Here's how it's done: Scrub a smoked ham in warm water with a brush or cloth. Cover it with cold water and let it soak overnight. Put it into a kettle, cover it with cold water and boil it slowly, with the lid on the kettle, until the ham is tender and the bone in the butt becomes loose (25 minutes cooking time to the pound is a fair allowance). When the ham is done, remove it from the kettle and let it cool. Remove the skin and some of the fat. Then cut diagonal lines across the fat to form diamonds. Stud the ham with whole cloves and pour molasses over it. Add some bread crumbs—and a glass of sherry, if you like. Then put the meat in an open pan and bake it long enough to brown the fat.

Informal Meal Simple Method Of Entertaining For Friends

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE
(AP Feature Service Writer)

The co-operative spirit of the buffet supper lends an easy informality to entertaining.

When guests, particularly those who may not be well-acquainted, help fill each others' plates they begin to feel at home and are more likely to saunter off in congenial groups to enjoy the repast.

The buffet supper for a spring night should have one hot food. That's better meal balance than when only cold food is served. A hot beverage should be included. And a hot bread—corn bread, biscuits, muffins or rolls — will be more than welcome.

The Right Starter.

Serve cocktails and canapes first. The guests can be enjoying those while the hostess puts the final touches to the rest of the meal.

Baked ham is a traditional mainstay for a buffet supper. Meat, fish or chicken loaf is also good. Cold cuts garnished with spiced beets and deviled eggs is an attractive alternate.

Some Good Hot Dishes.

Favorite hot dishes include chili con carne, baked beans, cheese rabbit, creamed chicken or tuna fish—with a pile of hot biscuits near at hand. Or you can choose from macaroni and cheese, escalloped corn, au gratin potatoes, creamed mushrooms, and baked or stuffed tomatoes or green peppers.

Green salads are especially delightful for a spring meal. Try a mixture of sliced radishes, cucumbers, asparagus, tomatoes, hard-cooked eggs, green peppers and onions. Add French dressing and chill the combination for several hours. Serve in a wooden bowl that has been rubbed with garlic.

If your crowd goes for sandwiches, here's an idea. Fill a large tray with sliced cold veal, ham, meat loaf, tongue, bologna and thin slices of American or Swiss cheese. Add mounds of several kinds of bread — rye, graham, raisin, brown or white. Be sure to make available plenty of horse radish, mustard, catsup, sliced pickles and chili sauce.

What can you serve for dessert?

Strawberry shortcake, swathed in whipped cream, is a top-of-the-list dessert. Cherry or berry tarts topped with ice cream are winners. Ice cream or sherbet with fruit, chocolate or caramel sauces are favorites. An old-fashioned apple or rhubarb cobbler with hard sauce is both delicious and filling.

Canape: Mix half a cup of crab meat with a fourth of a cup each of chopped pickles, celery, olives and grated cheese. Moisten with a little salad dressing and lemon juice and spread on toast rounds. Bake until slightly brown. Serve at once.

Save your flower seed packages to use as home decorations. Cut out the pictures of flowers and paste them on cupboard door corners, kitchen chair-backs or spice cans. Shellac over the cutouts to preserve them.

Chilled fruit or tomato juices may be served in small glasses by the hostess or one of her assistants.

Serve toast bars or squares, for instance, spread with sardines mixed with chopped pickles, salad dressing and lemon juice. Cover crackers with cheese mixed with a little catsup, onion and chopped olives. Stuff celery with liver paste and place it on a tray with crisp radishes, shredded carrots and tiny spring onions.

Everybody Likes Fondant

Everybody is fond of fondant—or they will be when they taste this confection flavored with coffee. Fondant is such a satisfactory candy, too, for it can be used in creating a variety of delectable sweets. When you're making your candies for the holidays, make a quantity of Coffee Fondant. Little squares of it make unusual and delightful opera creams. And it's simply grand tucked inside of plumb prunes or dates, or rolled in chopped nuts, cocoanut or chocolate shot.

Coffee Fondant.

Wash prunes and soak one hour in just enough cold water to cover. Steam until soft enough to pierce easily. Make a clean cut in the side of each prune to remove stone. Fill the cavity with Coffee Fondant. Roll in granulated sugar and let dry a few hours. Yield: 2 lbs.

1 lb. prunes 1 lb. Coffee Fondant
2 cups granulated sugar
½ cup strong coffee
⅓ cup irradiated evaporated milk
2 tbsp. butter

Blend sugar, coffee and milk thoroughly. Cook slowly, stirring constantly until sugar is dissolved, being careful not to splash against side of pan. Boil rapidly to the soft ball stage (238° F.) Cool, add butter. Beat until creamy. Turn onto a buttered board or marble slab and knead until smooth. Press into a square pan and cut into cubes. Yield: 1 lb.

Candies prepared with irradiated evaporated milk have not only a rich flavor and creamy texture but a goodly amount of whole milk nourishment. Prunes stuffed with Coffee Fondant are very wholesome—and they can be given to the children to satisfy the craving for sweets that the holidays seem to inspire.

Kitchen Hints

Use buttermilk as a substitute in cooking if you have no sour milk. If neither is available, sweet milk may be soured by putting two tablespoons of vinegar into a cup and filling it with sweet milk. In two or three minutes the milk will be sour enough to use.

English muffins may be made into clever cases for creamed foods. Scoop out the centers of the muffins. Fill the cases with creamed mixture. Then bake them ten minutes in a moderate oven.

To cook dandelion greens: Select tender, young greens. Wash them well and cover them with cold water. Add a fourth of a teaspoon of salt for each cup of water. Allow the greens to boil gently — uncovered — for fifteen minutes. Drain and serve them with salt, pepper and a bit of vinegar.

Vegetable combinations that are tasty and colorful: carrots and turnips, beets and cauliflower, asparagus and celery, green beans and whole corn kernels, cauliflower and peas, broccoli and lima beans. Cook the vegetables separately and combine them at serving time.

Britain, Ireland Sign Pact Ending Long Tariff War

ANGLO-IRISH DEFENSE PLAN ALSO SETTLED

Britain Gets Assurance That Ireland Won't Be Used as Base for Enemy Attack.

(By International News Service)

LONDON—Bringing to an end an era of strife between Great Britain and the state of Eire, a far-reaching agreement was signed today by Eamon De Valera and Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain.

The historic document was written into the records at 10 Downing street in an atmosphere of utmost friendliness.

Signing of today's settlement brings to an end the long tariff war growing out of Ireland's refusal to pay the land annuities owing on a loan from Britain.

Agree On Defense Plan.

Also settled is the question of Anglo-Irish defense relationships, and now Britain is assured from Dublin that Ireland will not be used as the base for any enemy attack on Ireland's neighboring island.

More than that, according to the Daily Mail, there lies an agreement eventually to end the present partition of Ireland.

Union of the six counties of the north and the counties of the south will be brought about by easy stages, the Mail states.

First steps will be a reduction in tariffs between the two divisions of the Emerald isle, together with recognition of the rights of the Roman Catholic minority in Ulster and the Protestant minority in Eire.

In further compensation for eradication of the land annuities, states the News Chronicle, De Valera will take special steps to fortify the coasts of Ireland, in consultation with London officials.

Up and Down THE STREET

Osborne Meese, Mansfield insurance man who is serving on the federal grand jury in Cleveland, had to take a lot of joshing over the week-end about being a "typical government employe." Although he was on duty all last week, he spent the time going to theaters and ball games because the cases being heard were insurance cases and he was ineligible to sit on them. He returned yesterday to Cleveland for further "duty."

If anyone ever attempts to take the paint off the fountain in Central park, he will find more layers and colors than Joseph had in his highly publicized coat. Each year the fountain is painted and each year a different color. Workmen started the "spring painting" this morning, covering last year's dark green with a coat of luminous silver.

Motion picture fans at the Mansfield Relays Saturday—and there were a lot of them—wish some system could be worked out to warn them in advance when pole vaulters and runners are going to make false starts. In a number of events runners and vaulters got off to false starts, and the cameramen, who started grinding in order to get the full picture of the start, found themselves wasting a lot of footage.

Between the incessant staccato of riveting machines and the sight of steel girders being lifted into the air at the new theater building at South Park and Diamond streets, workers at the courthouse are having trouble keeping their minds on business. Windows at the southwest corner of the courthouse, facing the new structure, are popular places, and one employe suggested that maybe the county fund could be boosted by charging an admission fee for a birdseye view of the activities across the street.

MARKS TIME IN MOVE TO SETTLE UAW GRIEVANCES

Serious Labor Controversy Looms as Dealers Meet to Discuss Trade Policies.

(By United Press)

DETROIT—While 16,000 Buick and Chevrolet workers awaited his command to strike, Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers union today assured the companies that he would withhold the call "until every means of settling the grievances has been exhausted."

More than 20,000 union members in Flint approved the strike last week. A word from Martin would create the most serious labor situation in the automobile industry since the sit-down strike in General Motors plants more than a year ago.

With this threat pending, representatives of 10,000 automobile dealers throughout the country gathered here for a two-day convention, to discuss means of stabilizing the industry by reforming retail trade practices.

Plans Code Draft.

Charles H March of the federal trade commission will conduct a conference Tuesday, when an attempt will be made to establish a code for dealers. The code would prohibit such things as misrepresentation, defamation of competitors, misleading price quotations and commercial bribery.

The UAW charged Buick and Chevrolet managements with indiscriminate wage cuts, intimidation and violation of seniority agreements.

Martin notified General Motors officials that the union expected to abide by its contract, which forbids strikes until all negotiation machinery has been exhausted, but he also warned that "we expect General Motors to do the same thing, and we intend to live up to our union constitution."

The constitution provides that UAW officials must obey the mandates of the rank and file. The strike vote at the Buick plant was 9,500 yes; 2,080 no; at the Chevrolet plant, 6,500 yes; 2,015 no.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Figures On How Much Tax Exemptions Cost U. S. and the Injustice of It

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Senator Harry Byrd, of Virginia, estimates the number of state, county and municipal employes, hereinafter referred to simply as state employes, at four million.

A year ago, however, George Brabson, a special attorney in the Internal Revenue department in Washington, estimated their number at 4,891,000. According to the World almanac, the total number of jobs that industry was able to proivide in 1936 was 43,843,000. Such figures can't be accurate but they are good enough to illustrate the fact that for every ten jobs that business can offer, state government provides one.

Many of these state jobs are rank fakes involving purely imaginary duties or none whatever. The city and county governments of Chicago, for example, are absolutely crawling with parasites of this type and in a conspicuous case in New York a couple of years ago a man holding a fat but useless position which was supposed to require intelligence was accused of being unable to write his name and refused to face a showdown on the question.

* * *

In business, where, generally speaking, every job has to show a profit and there are no sinecures except a few dugouts for useless sons and in-laws of owners and executives, the average pay in 1936 was $1,244. Senator Byrd has estimated that the state employes' average pay is $1,500.

Still, it is argued that it would be not only unconstitutional to compel state employes to pay the federal income tax but hardly worth the trouble. The probable return from the application of the federal income tax to this exempt class has been estimated by the treasury at only $15,000,000, but that reckoning fails to take into consideration the fact that if the members of this class were compelled to declare and pay the tax on their public pay, many of those who have income from other sources would be thrown into higher brackets.

Citing from incomplete records for 1935, Mr. Brabson built a table about a year ago showing that only 4,300,691 returns were filed and that because of the persistent hacking at the base with exemptions of one kind and another, the number of taxable returns had dwindled to 1,836,165. In 1931, the worst year of the great panic, there were only 1,525,546 taxable returns.

* * *

Mr. Brabson goes back to 1913, when the amendment became effective, to trace the development of exemptions. At that time, he says, the people generally understood that every person and corporation having a measurable income would be taxed to some extent. But, although the people had this thought in mind when they adopted the amendment, the first tax law contained jokers and outright immunities which reduced the base to a pin-point. And, since 1916 that small proportion of citizens who contribute anything to the federal government in income tax has been further reduced 50 per cent.

"The ratio of non-taxable income is appalling," Mr. Brabson wrote in the tax magazine. "In 1933 there were approximately forty-one million persons gainfully employed. And to that ten million who, by conservative estimate, are not employed but receive income from various sources. The total is fifty-one million subject to tax. Out of that total in 1933 we find that less than two million actually paid. That is, only 1.39 per cent of those having income are paying a direct tax in support of the federal government."

Mr. Brabson does a strong job of body-punching on the argument that if the tax were extended to state employes, capable people would be deterred from entering the state employ and that thus the states' efficiency would be impaired.

Oh, yeah, says he, and if they refused to enter state employment then what other employment would they select? Because if they shunned the so-called public service, they would have to hire out to private industry, in which they would have to pay the tax and no ifs or ands about it. He refrains from saying also that most of them couldn't be blasted out of their public jobs because their efficiency, which is spoken of with such great constitutional piety, is notoriously low and the requirements for job-holding under politics in a great proporiton of public jobs have nothing to do with ability.

* * *

Anyway, there you are: About one-eleventh of the total of employed Americans, with earnings about $5 a week higher than those of the working-stiff, are exempt because, among other reasons, they might sulk and brood and waste the states' time gossiping around the water-cooler about the foul injustice of a law compelling them to pay their fair share

Town Votes Out Cage For Drunks At "Plebiscite"

WOBURN, Mass.—(INS)—Woburn's horse-drawn cage on wheels to humiliate inebriates by parading them through the streets, stood rejected today following a "plebiscite" of the city's voters.

By a vote of 2,456 to 1,876, the voters in an unofficial and unprecedented expression of public will in this country, condemned the plan of Mayor William E. (Cage 'Em) Kane, as part of his drive to suppress drunkenness.

The cage was actually built several weeks ago in a blacksmith shop, behind locked doors. Its unveiling had all the glitter of a movie premiere.

As bands played, "May," a plodding, old city-owned, horse, paraded the empty cage through the streets. Crowds gathered along the route, and only one incident marred the slow march. From the crowd came an egg, to spatter against the iron bars.

SEEKS $17,300 IN STORE SUIT

Trustee In Bankruptcy Charges Breach of Contract.

In a petition charging breach of contract, Charles Old, trustee in bankruptcy for the Halbark Men's store, Mansfield, sought through common pleas court action today to collect $17,306 from D. R. Talbot, Mansfield.

Old states in his petition that the defendant has failed to keep his promise to indemnify him against claims and liabilities of the bankrupt firm amounting to $17,306.

The promise, Old says, was included in an agreement signed last Nov. 7 when the stock of merchandise and accounts receivable of the bankrupt firm were transferred to the plaintiff.

'SHOPPER' LOSES

Court Rules Against Paper as Legal Advertising Medium.

ELYRIA—A ninth district court of appeals ruling today had held that a give-away publication such as a "shopping" paper is not an acceptable medium for legal advertising.

The court's decision upheld a ruling by the Loram county common pleas court, which had ruled against a give-away paper in a suit brought by a taxpayer, claiming that advertisement of a foreclosure action in the "shopping paper, the Lorain News, formerly the Lorain Shopping News, did not provide opportunity for a fair sale.

The trial court held that a paper to be eligible for such advertising must have a general paid circulation and the facilities for the gathering and dissemination of news. The News editor claimed in testimony that his paper had a circulation of 11,000, but only two paid subscribers.

WAR DECLARED 40 YEARS AGO

Congress Vote On Strife In Spain Was Historic Event.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Congress declared war against Spain 40 years ago today in one of the most tense sessions of its history.

It was silence that brought about the historic vote—silence from Spain after the United States had sent her an ultimatum demanding she get out of Cuba, then torn by revolution.

The ultimatum expired on noon of April 23, but already there was a virtual state of war. On the previous day President McKinley had proclaimed a blockade of Santiago, Cuba, and of the North Cuban coast.

4,000 KILLED IN 6-HOUR BATTLE

Loyalists Lose Heavily in Slaughter on Mediterranean Coast, Fascists Say.

(By United Press)

HENDAYE, FRENCH-SPANISH FRONTIER. — Spanish Nationalist dispatches asserted today that 4,000 loyalist were killed at Alcala De Chivert, on the Mediterranean coast in a six-hour battle.

The loyalists formed what amounted to a living wall to oppose the nationalist advance, it was asserted, and maintained it despite terrible slaughter by nationalist machine guns, until they were destroyed.

Thirty-seven nationalist bombing airplanes opened the attack, it was said, and picked infantry moved in after they had bombed and machine gunned the loyalists.

Storming the town, the nationalist advices said, the nationalists under Gen. Miguel Aranda took 900 prisoners and captured a big amount of war materials including five tanks and four armored cars.

By their advances during the week-end, the nationalists asserted, they had penetrated beyond Torreblanca, 22½ miles from Castellon de La Plana, their next objective on the road to Valencia.

Hollywood Speaks—

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—For the next cycle of backstage musicals on film, a suggestion: a picture or two about the unknown chorine who gets her Big Chance when the temperamental star walks out—and then goes back to the chorus line.

It happens, as the screen never admits, much more frequently than the happy ending always employed. It happens in Hollywood, too, and more frequently than the happy ending But Hollywood, for the public, writes only success stories.

Currently Dick Powell is taking a "vacation" without pay. He wouldn't play in "Garden of the Moon" and hence took suspension. It isn't the first time Dick has quietly gone off salary to avoid a role he didn't like Each time they've made the picture with a substitute, but the Warner lot isn't over-run with spare Powells in consequence

* * *

In "Garden of the Moon" John Payne is taking the Powell role admittedly secondary to Pat O'Brien's Payne's a handsome lad, with some little experience in pictures, and he can sing Sing well, obviously, as he was being tested for "Desert Song" when Powell walked He stands a good chance of clicking—but it isn't "in the bag."

The Cinderella formula has worked in many cases When Myrna Loy pouted over salary and left town, Metro turned to an obscure little foreigner, just learning English, and put her in the picture Myrna abandoned. The little foreigner caught on in "Escapade" and since has won two academy awards—Luise Rainer.

Paramount once had a picture ready to go with Clara Bow and Gary Cooper. But Clara couldn't make it: ill, tired of pictures and publicity, she took a vacation. To make the picture the studio brought back a stage actress who had tried pictures once before with no result. So "City Streets" made a movie star of Sylvia Sidney.

* * *

On one of George Raft's several walks for what he considered his professional health the role he left behind was filled by Jack LaRue. Raft had refused the unsavory assignment in "The Story of Temple Drake" on the grounds it would turn the fans against him. LaRue, comparatively unknown, could risk that. But the picture did him no good.

He never seemed to escape the stigma of that first big chance. He played gangsters and murderers until he rebelled at the typing. In "A Farewell to Arms" and later in "Captains Courageous" he did excellent priestly roles, proving his versatility—but he never became a big star like the understudy in the backstage movie.

When Bette Davis went to England fighting with her studio, she left a vacant role in "God's Country and the Woman." The studio put Beverly Roberts in the part. By all the rules Miss Roberts should have become a sensation. It is no discredit to her that she didn't. One of the reasons Bette Davis went to England was "God's Country and the Woman"—and her assignment in it.

Thin-Clads Put On Big Show

Work Put in on Relays by Mehock, Other Workers, Pays Dividends.

By OSCAR RUHL
(News-Journal Sports Editor)

ALL that work Harry Mehock, not to forget Dr. W. E. Wygant and the army of other volunteer workers, put in on the big track and field carnival certainly paid dividends Saturday. Not only were the entry records destroyed, but also the attendance mark. There were about 5,000 in the stands for the finals. Never before in the history of the Relays was it necessary to use the west stands for spectators. The east bleachers were packed early, and the west stands were half-filled before the first afternoon event was pulled off. Legionnaires of the McVey post, who again did a fine job of policing the field, found it difficult to control the crowd late in the afternoon, and many swarmed onto the field to make it unpleasant for John Linta of Mansfield and Keith O'Rourke of Warren as they successfully set new standards in the pole vault and high jump, respectively. . . . There was a small regiment of candid camera men on the field getting shots of the nerve-tingling action. Two of the most active lensmen were members of the board of education, W. C. Mead and Harold W. Arlin. Supt. W. L. Miller and Principal Jesse Beer of Mansfield were among the most interested spectators from the infield. . . . Don Rose did a fine job of making up a big deficit in the 880-yard relay for Mansfield, but Anchorman Ike Smith was nosed out at the tape. . . . Jabbo Giles, Newark's colored power athlete, who won a couple of firsts, was offered a chance to become a member of Jesse Owens A. A. U. track team by a Cleveland representative after the meet, but withheld his decision. . . . And former Mansfielder Eddie Schrack, Newark sports editor, was on hand inquiring whether it was certain Giles had won the trophies for obtaining the most points in the field events. . . . More than 12,000 words were filed from Stadium field to tell the world about the Relays doings.

Callista

Thomases Do Well In Dash Prelims

THERE were three heat winners in the 220-yard dash prelims named Thomas. One hailed from Cleveland East, another from Cleveland East Tech and the third from Jackson, Mich. . . . All of the talk in the morning trials centered around the touted James Callista's failure to qualify in the century, the event in which he was defending champion. Some said he got away to a bad start. He showed he was still a pretty good runner by setting the best preliminary time in the furlong. Callista, incidentally, is the 440-yard champion of Pennsylvania, but his coach, Red Cochrane, refuses to let him go at this distance until he is properly conditioned by early appearances in the sprints. That's the reason Mansfield has never seen him run the quarter-mile. . . . Bob Corry, Galion coach, was on hand receiving congratulations on his new job that will take him to Cuyahoga Falls. . . . Bill Bibbs of Cleveland East almost failed to qualify in the 220 dash when he slackened his pace at the finish. He had to put on a burst of speed to finish second after holding a big lead all the way . . . Maj. Britton, Tennessee university line coach, was a spectator.

Ice Cream, Cold Drinks In Demand

SATURDAY marked the first in many Relays that ice cream and cold drinks were in demand . . . Brothers Jim and Don Whittaker, formerly of Sandusky high, who shared the Relays pole vault record broken by Linta, were the first to congratulate the Mansfield boy . . . One of the most disappointed teams was Bryan, which had its eyes set on the medley record. It had to be satisfied with a close second to the record-breaking Schenectady, N. Y., quartet . . . There were two Al L. Gants listed as contestants. Both were members of the Sandusky team, and also weightmen. They are cousins . . . Those swelegant badges worn by the officials were produced by the Simpson junior high printing class . . . The question, "Whose this guy Nott Terrace?" asked by a scribe, drew the biggest press tent laugh. He didn't associate the name with the Schenectady, N. Y., high school . . . Dick McMullen of Mansfield tripped off a fine race to win his section in the 440, but a fraction of a second kept him out of the points . . . Pat Pasini, starter, and Ellis Vander Pyle, clerk of course, kept things moving right along. And Bill Keefe again proved to be a valuable assistant for Vander Pyle, who once ran for Yale . . . . . and, in summing it all up, it was by far the greatest Relays of them all.

Exchange Batons In Relay

Pictured above is one of the scenes snapped in a relay at the Mansfield Relays at Stadium field Saturday. The photo shows the exchange of batons at the end of the first leg of one of the sections run in the medley relay. The runners at the right exchanging the stick are members of the Newark team, which won the section but the time it set failed to rate better than third in the final standings. Nott Terrace of Schenectady, N. Y., set a new record in this event. The dark-uniformed runners represent Erie, Pa., East. A Mansfield runner can be seen in the background. The Mansfield team failed to place high in this event.

Texans Hold Stage At Armory Tonight

Three Grapplers From Lone Star State to Strut Stuff On Quality Club Card.

IN WHAT appears to be a Texas convention, three wrestling ambassadors from the Lone Star state will appear on tonight's mat program scheduled by the Quality Club at the Armory.

Tex Hagar, Otis Clingman and Bill "Indian Ike" Cazzell are the men in question, the first-named coming from Herford, the second from Amarillo and the third from Laredo. The trio forms a potent contingent of light-heavyweights.

Only in the opener is the "cowboy" influence lost, and this was assured when Tim Nolan signed Prince Ilaki of Bagdad, Arabia, to meet Francis Steele of Plymouth. Even this duo had to claim some part of the "wild west" color for Ilaki is a master horseman, while Steele does his bronco bustin' on a motorcycle.

Grubmyer

Chicago's gift to the lightheivyweight division, "Gorilla" Grubmyer, is slated to meet Otis Clingman in the main event, a bout that is slated for two falls with a 90-minute time limit. Hager and Cazzell, the latter a half-breed Indian, will collide in the semi-final, two falls and a 45-minute limit.

Ladies will be admitted free to tonight's matches if accompanied by escorts. The Ilaki-Steele conflict, one fall and 30-minute time limit, is slated to get under way at 8:30.

DISTRIBUTE TOURNEY PRIZES TUESDAY NIGHT

W. S. (Brig) Young, secretary of the Mansfield bowling association, announced today that prize checks and other awards for the city tournament will be distributed at the Meder Recreation alleys at 8 p. m. Tuesday.

CHICAGO WOMAN GAINS ALL-EVENTS LEAD

CINCINNATI—(AP)—Mrs. Dorothy Burmeister of Chicago held the spotlight in the Women's Bowling Congress tournament here today with her name at the top of the all-events and singles standings.

The Chicagoan held the highest solo score with a 608 and topped her competitors in the all-events with a 1,843 total, an 82-pin margin over the 1761 total rolled last year by Louise Stockdale of Detroit to win the championship.

Mansfield High Golfers Win

The Mansfield high golf team opened its 1938 season Saturday by drubbing Ashland high, 12 to 4, at Possum Run.

Mansfield's attack was headed by Bob Moorhead who socked out a neat 41-39—80 to win individual honors. Chuck Schlegel shot a 42-43—85 for the winners. Phil Smith topped the Ashland club with a 46-39—85.

The complete team schedule follows: April 30, at Ashland; May 3, Wooster here; May 7, Canton here; May 11, at Marion; May 14, at Canton; May 18, at Bucyrus; May 21, district meet here; May 28, Marion here and June 4, at Wooster.

WHOLESALE DEMOLITION OF RECORDS FEATURES 12th RUNNING OF RELAYS

Track, Field and Attendance Marks Destroyed as Cleveland Central Dethrones Sandusky as Champion at Stadium Field.

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

ALL that remains to remind the city of the most spectacular edition of the Mansfield Relays are the spike marks left in the turf at Stadium field by the army of more than 1,200 athletes in the unprecedented wave of record-breaking achievements Saturday.

Eleven new marks were woven into the history book of the Relays Saturday by the interscholastic thin-clad stars who represented six states in the bitter competition that attracted a record throng of 5,000 spectators.

To say that the customers enjoyed the 12th annual renewal of the gigantic athletic show is putting it mildly. Stunned by the wholesale demolition of standards, the huge crowd literally tore down the high school athletic plant in its enthusiasm to acclaim the record-breaking feats.

In the excitement created by the paring of 11 of the 18 records, the close battle for team points waged by the 85 schools of Ohio, Michigan, New York, Pennsylvania, Kentucky and West Virginia virtually escaped the notice of the huge assemblage.

The crowd was entirely unaware of the courageous uphill climb staged by Cleveland Central to annex its first Relays championship, and only a few knew that the up-state school assembled the points it needed to win the title in the last event on the program, the mile relay.

Win Relays Title By Half Point Margin

COACH F. J. CIVOLETTI'S Centralites accumulated 25½ points as they dethroned Sandusky as champions, but their margin of victory was only a half point.

Linta.

Toledo Scott, twice a champion, finished second for the third straight year Saturday, while Sandusky never figured as a contender in its defense of the title it won two years in a row. The graduation-riddled Sandusky team tallied only seven points.

Huntington, W. Va., finished third with 23 points to lead the invaders from outside the state, and Erie, Pa., Strong Vincent, which shared third place with the new champion in the 1937 Relays, was only one point behind. Cleveland East, with 19, was fifth.

Mansfield, with a weaker team than usual, made its poorest showing in the 12-year-old history of the track circus Saturday. Director Harry Mehock's own flock of performers were credited with only six points to land far down in the standing.

The Mansfield points were all earned by Capt. John Linta, who established one of the 11 records to successfully defend his pole vault title.

Linta twisted expertly over the cross bar at the spectacular height of 12 feet, 8½ inches, to eclipse the old mark set jointly by the famed Whittaker brothers of Sandusky, Don and Jim, in 1936, by two and a half inches.

Linta's vault was only a half inch short of the Stadium field record which he hung up a year ago in a dual meet against Columbus North.

Only Three Retain Titles Won In 1937

THE Mansfield team leader was one of only three 1937 champions to retain their laurels in Saturday's classic. Howard Leahy of Cleveland East Tech again won the mile and Rufus Allison of the champion Central team annexed the broad jump honors for the second straight year.

Perfect weather and a fast track favored the athletes in the running of the colorful Relays for the first time in many years, and much credit for the record performances must be attributed to these conditions, although it cannot be denied that the athletes comprised what was regarded as the strongest field ever to participate in the nation's largest independent schoolboy athletic affair.

Central trailed in fourth place when the competition swung into the last event, with Toledo Scott on top 3½ points ahead with 23.

Scott needed only a second in the mile relay to regain the title, but it could do no better than fourth in the race which was run in sections against time.

Central, with a team consisting of four plucky runners in Molman, Thompson, Withers and Smith, was adjudged the winner of the relay to edge the unfortunate Scotters by a mere half point in the standings.

Huntington copped second place in the relay to jump ahead of Strong Vincent and Cleveland East, which failed to place in the mile relay.

In winning the all-important relay, the Central quartet fashioned a new record of 3:35.6 to better the old mark hung up by Scott in 1935 by nearly four seconds.

Central's margin of victory in the Relays was provided by Withers, who obtained the important half point by gaining a tie with Peterson of Upper Arlington for third place in the 440-yard run.

Had Peterson beaten Withers in this event, the Relays would have ended in a tie for the first time in history. However, as it developed, the margin was the second smallest ever to decide the championship. Mansfield beat out Cleveland East Tech by a smaller fraction in the 1933 Relays.

Central Scores Heavily in '440'

POINTS registered in the quarter mile definitely rode Central into the thick of the race for the title.

Central tallied nine and a half points in this event on Jack Smith's first, Withers' tie for third and Thompson's fifth to jump from a low position in the standings into the lead, which it lost and never regained until the last race of the day.

To pile up 25½ points, the Cleveland school accounted for three firsts, a third and a tie for third and a pair of fifth places. The runner-up Scott team's only first was registered by the two-mile relay winners, but it hung up three second places.

Bob Wright of Huntington, W. Va., was the outstanding individual performer in this year's renewal. Young Wright set records to win both hurdle events and anchored the runner-up shuttle relay team to alone account for 13 points, more than half of Huntington's total.

The West Virginia boy destroyed the oldest record on the Relays boards when he skimmed over the low barriers in 26.2 seconds. The former mark of 27 seconds was set by Jack Keller, who later achieved great fame in collegiate ranks at Ohio State, in one of the early editions of the Relays.

Wright was clocked at 15 seconds over the high sticks, four-tenths lower than the previous standard hoisted by Seitz of Cleveland West Tech six years ago.

Incidentally, the high hurdles mark was bettered twice and tied once Saturday.

State Champion Al Kurnat of Cleveland John Marshall was the first to smash the mark in the preliminaries when he cut two seconds off Seitz' time. Wright tied the old record in the trials.

Wright was one of three dual winners Saturday. Husky Lowell Carmany of Cleveland Collinwood, fast as Jesse Owens at the finish, stole the show from the heralded James Callista of Strong Vincent to win both sprints in the good time of 10 flat in the century and 22.3 in the furlong, and Henry (Jabbo) Giles of nearby Newark won the discus and shot put events in which he finished second last year.

The big colored Newark weightman heaved the 16-pound iron ball 50 feet, three one-fourth inches to break the standard of 49-6 realized by Davis of Cleveland East Tech in 1930.

* * *

New State Record Set In High Jump

ALL of the new records set Saturday compare favorably with the state and national marks, with one bettering an Ohio high school standard.

Weiry Keith O'Rourke of Warren Harding leaped six feet, five and a half inches in the high jump to break the old Relays standard manufactured by Mel Walker of Toledo Libbey by three and a quarter inches and the state mark of 6-4½, fashioned by Ed Burke of Cleveland Central, now Marquette's world record contender.

One of the outstanding exhibitions of Saturday was turned in by Quinten Brelsford of Birmingham, Mich., who is slated to go to Michigan where his two brothers were nationally known runners.

In looping the '440' distance in 1:59.2 to smash a record, Brelsford beat three champions, Witosky of Canonsburg, Pennsylvania state king, finished second; Rish of East, Cleveland indoor champ, was third and Riedy of Sandusky, 1937 Relays winner, was fifth. Brelsford has never been beaten in three years of competition.

The major disappointments were Callista and the two-mile relay team of Saginaw, Mich., Eastern.

Handicapped by an ankle injured in a skating mishap, Callista was unable to qualify for the 100-yard finals, and finished a poor third in the 220.

The favored Michigan relay team, strengthened by the addition of Charles Schmeling, Michigan

Miller-Glover Bout Expected To Pack Y. M. C. A. Tuesday Night

By CHARLES MARTIN

CURLEY MILLER, Mansfield lightweight, will be up against a real barrier Tuesday in the finals of the Junior Association of Commerce A. A. U. boxing tournament at the Y. M. C. A.

The youthful leather slinger meets Beauford Glover, undefeated Friendly House product, for the championship in one of the feature affairs on the program which gets under way at 7:30 p. m.

Glover, who made his debut two years ago, is famous for dishing out knockout punches and the fans will watch with interest Tuesday to see if he is able to lay one of his clouts on Millers chin. The bout should help pack the Y.

It will be Millers first attempt to win a lightweight crown. In all the other tournaments he has appeared as a featherweight, but the weight picked up due to an inactive winter places him in the 136-pound division.

Miller will spot Glover a five-pound weight advantage, but is expected to press the settlement star to the limit. Glover has scored two technical knockouts in the tourney so far, while Miller's record includes a technical knockout and a decision.

Glover is the pre-turney favorite to annex the crown, but his poor showing in disposing of John Emerson of Lexington in a semi-final affair last Thursday raises Miller's stock several notches.

Fans will get their first glimpse of Ernie McKinley, of Ashland, outstanding featherweight, Tuesday night. The Ashlander was to have appeared on the card Thursday, but his opponent failed to show up. He will appear in two bouts, the first against Salavador Duran of Fremont.

Three other Mansfield youths will go back into action Tuesday. They are Jack Swartz, 175, Paul Carbetta, 112, and Tom Clemens, 112. Swartz tackles Merle Kleinknecht of Galyion in a semi-final bout, while Carbetta and Clemens, of the Friendly House, fight it out to meet Frankie Dolce of Crestline in the finals of the flyweight division.

Out Again

ROLLIE HEMSLEY

CLEVELAND —(AP)— "Rollicking Rollie" Hemsley came home today in the dog house again, while his team mates, the Cleveland Indians, moved into Chicago in first place in the American league.

Manager Oscar Vitt suspended Hemsley indefinitely and fined him $250 for breaking training.

Hemsley caught for Bob Feller at Detroit Sunday while the Indians spanked the Tigers for the third straight time, 9 to 4. Vitt saw Hemsley celebrating in the Indians' hotel at Detroit last night.

The incorrigable playboy of the league immediately was given his second suspension of the season. He was sent home for a week during the spring training for the same reason.

With the St. Louis Browns last year he lost $5,000 in payless suspensions and fines. Vitt stated after the Indians obtained Hemsley that the 30-year-old veteran could be handled with kindness and a new chance. He has caught only two games since the season opened.

Indians Hustle For Vitt, Topple Tigers to Gain Lead

Feller Gives Another Dazzling Performance As He Blanks Detroit For Eight Heats.

By GEORGE KIRKSEY

CHICAGO—(U.P.)—When Oscar Vitt was named manager of the Cleveland Indians, the nation's baseball fans said he would be just another "fall guy" like Roger Peckinpaugh, Walter Johnson and Steve O'Neill.

Why quit a lucrative job in the New York Yankee organization as manager of the Newark Bears to commit "baseball suicide" in Cleveland?

Well, maybe Vitt has the answer to all those enigmas which have haunted the Indians since 1920 when Tris Speaker led them to the world's championship—the first and only time Cleveland ever had a place in the baseball sun.

Couldn't Be Done?

Maybe Vitt visualized a team of powerful hitters and whirlwind pitchers all working together. The skeptics said it couldn't be done in Cleveland but a glance at the American League standings show the Indians setting the pace—and they may be hard to catch with Feller, Allen and Harder fogging them past the hitters and Trosky, Averill, Campbell and Solters supplying the punch.

Vitt's slogan for the Indians in the New Orleans' training camp was: "Hustle!" He called a player aside one day and said: "You draw a big salary and are a star but I noticed you were loafing a trifle in the eighth inning today. If you still want to stay on this club you've got to play the string out for all you're worth. If you don't want to do it, you don't play with Cleveland."

The word spread around and that's why you see the Indians on top now. They may not win the pennant but, under Vitt, they'll play right up to the limit of their ability or else.

Fast Ball Flies.

Bob Feller had his fast ball working to near perfection in the final game of the series with the Detroit Tigers. The Indians came here today to open an engagement with the Chicago White Sox.

Feller, who turned in a one-hit masterpiece in his inaugural start against the St. Louis Browns, gave another dazzling exhibition yesterday as the Indians beat Detroit 9 to 4.

For eight innings Feller blanked the hard-hitting Tigers. Over that stretch he gave up only three hits. After one man had been retired in the ninth the 19-year-old fire-baller ran into trouble and Detroit combed him for five hits and four runs.

Feller was blazing his fast ball past the Detroit Tigers repeatedly in the first eight innings. He struck out 11 batsmen. Every man in the Tigers' starting lineup except Jo-Jo White and Don Ross went down at least once on strikes. Hank Greenberg, the slugging first sacker, was fanned twice.

In addition to showing more "swift" than at any previous time this season, Feller had excellent control. The youngster walked only three men and hit one.

While Feller had the Tigers at his mercy, the Indians were slamming George Coffman, Alton Benton and Boots Poffenberger for 14 hits.

Clinch Contest.

Cleveland scored once in the first inning and then came back in the second to clinch the contest by scoring five times. Two more runs were added in the fifth and the final counter in the eighth.

Every man in the Cleveland lineup with the exception of Feller secured at least one hit. Hal Trosky, Lyn Lary and Sammy Hale each hammered out a home run.

Earl Whitehill and Merritt (Sugar) Cain were to be the opposing hurlers here today.

Jimmy Stout's 39-37-76 Low

Nick Linster Follows With a 78 at Posum Run.

Jimmy Stout, Possum Run pro, led the parade of Mansfield golfers who converged on the three Mansfield courses last week-end.

Stout cracked out a sparkling 39-37—76 for individual honors. His score was four over par. Nick Linster, outstanding Mansfield amateur, followed Stout home with a fast 41-37—78. Both shotmakers were one over par coming in. Chuck Snyder toured P. R. layout and ended up with a 40-43—83.

At Westbrook Country club, Paul Auxter displayed mid-season form by pounding out a 41-38—79. Ed Eisle collected a 41-40—81 . . . Gene Zediker had a 45-40—85 . . . and Bob Moorhead shot a par 36 on the inside nine.

The best score this season at Coolridge country club was turned in by Red Keck. He finished with a 38, four over par . . . He then added a 44 to his card . . . Rev. Grover E. Swoyer played the layout last week and came in with a 41 . . . Frank Lay accounted for a 43-44—78 and Clare Bell had a 40-39—79 Sunday.

Schumacher Gives Dodgers One Hit

Sets Brooklyn Down Hitless After Rosen, First Man Up, Bangs Out Single.

By GAYLE TALBOT
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

NATIONAL League pitchers evidently are beginning to take a liking to that new ball with its slightly raised seams. In four games yesterday they turned in a series of remarkable performances, Hal Schumacher of the Giants showing the way with a one-hit, 1 to 0 victory over Brooklyn's Dodgers.

There's no doubt the National League ball affords a little better grip than the American agate and enables a pitcher to get maybe a little more stuff on his deliveries, though tests have proved it travels just as far when swatted soundly.

Four Reach First.

The only hit off Schumacher was by Rosy Rosen, Brooklyn rookie, the first man to face him at Ebbets field. Thereafter only three reached first on the Giants right-hander, all on walks.

Van Mungo of the Dodgers gave 10 hits, but it took Mel Ott's home run in the second inning to beat him.

Danny MacFayden of the Boston Bees produced a three-hit gem in blanking the Phillies, 2 to 0. Just before game time he had been advised of the death of his foster father, but insisted upon pitching.

Dizy Dean gave a little additional proof that he isn't going to do the Chicago Cubs any material harm as he shut out his old chums, the St. Louis Cardinals, 5 to 0, on four hits.

Chicago fans to the number of 34,520 turned out to see their new $250,000 beauty, and Dizzy didn't disappoint them. His curve, which is wider than in other years, had the Cards swinging frantically. He singled for one of the Cubs' eight blows off Max Macon, a youngster making his first big league start.

Jim Tobin kept the undefeated Pirates tearing along at the head of the procession as he bested Peaches Davis of Cincinnati, 2 to 1, in a brilliant duel. He allowed five hits; Davis six. The Pirates opened a series with the Cubs today.

Cleveland climbed into the American League lead with its fifth straight triumph and third in a row ever Detroit, 9 to 4. Bob Feller held the Tigers to three safeties and no runs for the first eight innings. They popped him five times in the ninth to break his scoreless string.

Show Old Spunk.

With Joe De Maggio still out of the line-up, the Yankees showed some of their old-time spunk in beating Washington, 4 to 3. Trailing into the eighth, they filled the bases and scored the tying and winning runs on a lazy grounder that the Senator infield failed to convert into a double play.

The St. Louis Browns nosed out Chicago, 4 to 3, in the last of the ninth after the White Sox had rallied in their half to score three times and chase Jim Walkup from the hill.

The Philadelphia Athletics finally broke into the win column by lacing four Boston rookie pitchers for 14 hits and a 10 to 4 victory. Bob Johnson of the A's hit his third home run of the season.

Nelson Wins Weekly Shoot

Talmadge Nelson of Crestline scored a .57 percentage mark Saturday to win individual honors in the weekly Mansfield Muzzle Loader rifle club match staged at the Mansfield range.

He copped three firsts, a second and a third in seven matches. R. Kinker also won three firsts and a pair of seconds in nine matches to finish second with .48 percentage.

	Matches	1sts	2ds	3ds	Pct.
T. Nelson	7	3	1	1	.57
R. Kinker	9	3	2		.48
Joe Adams	11	3	2	1	.43

Millers Again Stop Birdmen

COLUMBUS— (UP)— Shrewd management and fine pitching today had thrust the Minneapolis Millers into a prominent place in the American association pennant race.

Belve Bean, Jim Henry and Bud Parmelee each went the route against Columbus and in doing so granted only two runs and 10 hits in three contests. Air-tight pitching of that type is certain to make the Millers a pennant factor.

Parmelee was in the box in the final game of the series yesterday as Minneapolis won 6 to 2. The big right-hander, back in association ranks after many seasons in the majors, gave Columbus only three hits. Meanwhile his teammates pounded Nate Andrews for 17 safetics.

DAYTON PLAYER HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENT

REIDSVILLE, N. C.—(AP)—Eddie Murphy, 20, of Cairo, Ill., member of the Dayton, O., baseball club of the Mid-Atlantic league, was in serious condition today with burns sustained in an automobile accident. Two of his Dayton teammates, Don Borland, 24, and Walter Maslowsky, 23, were less seriously injured.

Wholesale Demolition Of Records Features Relays

440-yard champion, finished fifth in the two-mile race which was won by Toledo Scott in record-breaking time of 8:30.04.

The Saginaw quartet, with three veterans in the lineup, failed to show any of the speed that it displayed when it established the only record of the 1937 affair.

Other records were set by the medley relay team of Schenectady, N. Y., Nott Terrace, which came the greatest distance to compete in the Relays, timed at 8:03.9; shuttle relay team of Erie, Pa., Academy, 1:05.5, and Mike Sorek of Erie, Pa., East, who tossed the javelin 180 feet, five inches.

Elmer Dials of Mansfield, who was heavily favored in the javelin, failed to qualify with a toss of 165 feet. Dials was handicapped by the knee which he dislocated in a hurdle accident a week ago.

Less Than Half of Schools Score Points

ONLY 38 of the 85 schools entered in the Relays scored points. The fifth place Cleveland East team was followed in this order: Newark 15, Erie, Pa., East 14, Cleveland Cathedral Latin 14, Cleveland East Tech 13, Cleveland Collinwood 12, Erie, Pa., Academy 10, Akron Garfield 8, Sandusky 7, Birmingham, Mich., 7, Cleveland Rhodes 6, Mansfield 6, Warren 6, Schenectady, N. Y., Nott Terrace 6, Canonsburg, Pa., 5, Bryan 4, Cleveland West Tech 4, East Palestine 4, Republic 4, Pittsburgh, Pa., South Hills 4, Ferndale, Mich., 4, Chillicothe 3, Columbus North 3, Upper Arlington 3½, River Rouge, Mich., 3, Cleveland John Marshall 2, Meadville, Pa., 2, Columbiana 1, Lockwood 1, Milan 1, Shaker Heights 1, Flint, Mich., 1, Northern 1, Saginaw, Mich., Eastern 1, Wyandotte, Mich., 1.

Ike Eisenhart, Ohio State freshman, who won the state half mile title last year as a member of the Columbus North team, took the 880-yard added feature in 1:59, two tenth of a second faster than Brelsford's time in setting a new Relays mark.

Dodd of Ashland college, Nebraska high school champion, was second; Price, also of Ohio State, third, and Legg, Ashland veteran, fourth.

The special junior high school 880-yard relays was annexed by Newark in 1:41.2, with Cleveland Collinwood, Cleveland Central, Mansfield Simpson and Tiffin Columbian finishing in that order.

Western won the 440-yard grade school relays in 1:01, with Bushnell, second; Brinkerhoff, third; Bowman, fourth, and West Fifth, fifth.

LANDIS CONSIDERS DICK SEIBERT'S CASE

CHICAGO—(AP)—The appeal of First Baseman Dick Siebert, who contended the St. Louis Cardinals had not given him a fair chance to show his ability and had been using him to protect their farm clubs, has been taken under consideration by Kenesaw M. Landis, commissioner of baseball.

Landis said he talked with Siebert yesterday but that no decision would be made for several days. Meanwhile, he said, Siebert would join the Columbus American Association team as ordered by the Cardinals.

RESERVES TOP FOE

The Mansfield high reserve track and field team defeated New London, 62 7-9 to 55 2-9, in a dual meet at Stadium field Friday. LeMunyon of Mansfield scored firsts in the two sprints.

HOME RUN HITTERS

The leaders: American—Johnson 3, Trosky 2, Chapman 2, Greenberg 2. National—McCarthy 3, Camilli 2, Goodman 2, Ott 2.

AKRON — (AP) — John Lazor's eighth inning homer enabled Akron to defeat Canton, 5 to 4, in a Mid-Atlantic league exhibition game here Sunday.

Open Battle For Cellar

CINCINNATI —(U.P.)— A battle for the National league cellar was opened here today when the Cincinnati Reds and the St. Louis Cardinals played their initial contest of the season.

The Reds and Cards are now tied for last place in the national league standing with one victory and five defeats. Paul Derringer or Lee Grissom was slated to pitch for the Reds with southpaw Bob Weiland in the box for the Cards.

Pittsburgh's high-flying Pirates continued their domination over the Reds yesterday by snaring a 2 to 1 triumph. The win was Pittsburgh's 24th in 25 games against Cincinnati since the start of the 1937 season.

The contest yesterday was a neat mound duel between Ray (Peaches) Davis and Rookie Jim Tobin. Tobin gave up five hits and Davis allowed six.

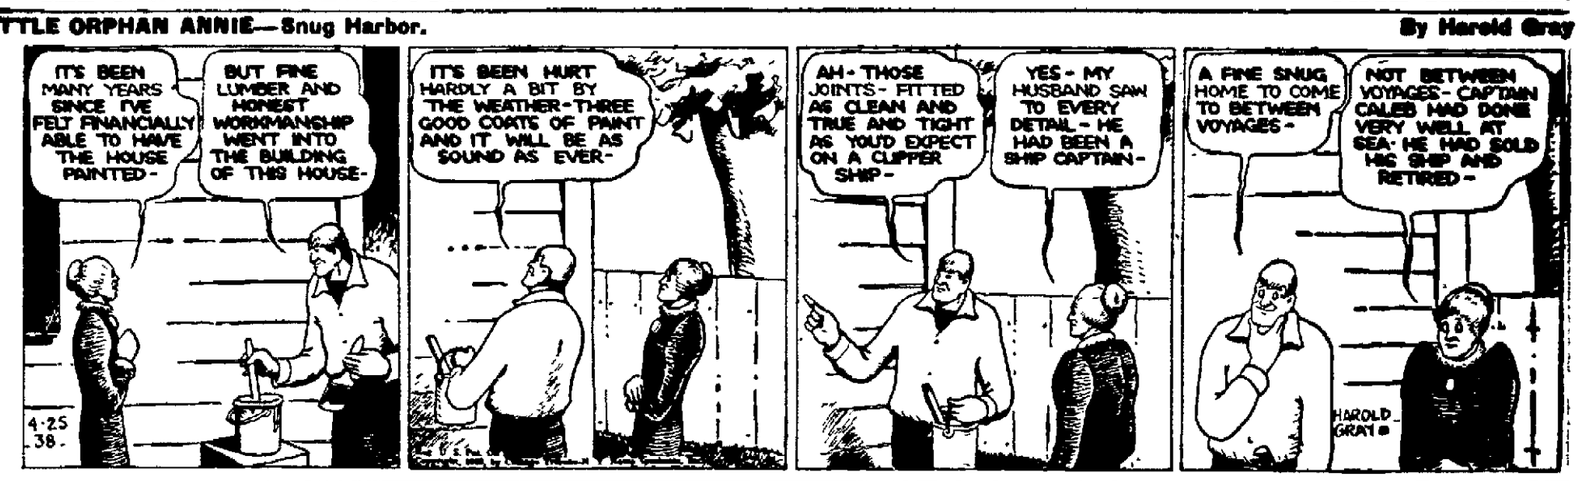
LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE— Snug Harbor. By Harold Gray



IT'S BEEN MANY YEARS SINCE I'VE FELT FINANCIALLY ABLE TO HAVE THE HOUSE PAINTED-
BUT FINE LUMBER AND HONEST WORKMANSHIP WENT INTO THE BUILDING OF THIS HOUSE-
4-25-38-
IT'S BEEN HURT HARDLY A BIT BY THE WEATHER-THREE GOOD COATS OF PAINT AND IT WILL BE AS SOUND AS EVER-
AH-THOSE JOINTS-FITTED AS CLEAN AND TRUE AND TIGHT AS YOU'D EXPECT ON A CLIPPER SHIP-
YES-MY HUSBAND SAW TO EVERY DETAIL-HE HAD BEEN A SHIP CAPTAIN-
A FINE SNUG HOME TO COME TO BETWEEN VOYAGES-
NOT BETWEEN VOYAGES-CAPTAIN CALEB HAD DONE VERY WELL AT SEA-HE HAD SOLD HIS SHIP AND RETIRED-

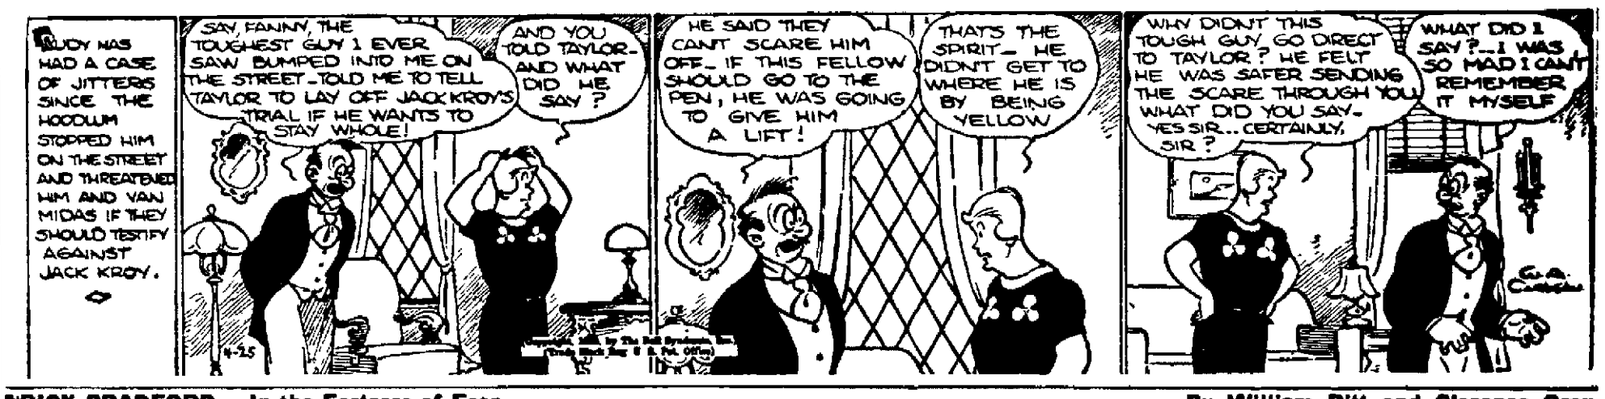
THE NEBBS— Just a Two-Fisted Guy. By Sol Hess



RUDY HAS HAD A CASE OF JITTERS SINCE THE HOODLUM STOPPED HIM ON THE STREET AND THREATENED HIM AND VAN MIDAS IF THEY SHOULD TESTIFY AGAINST JACK KROY.
SAY, FANNY, THE TOUGHEST GUY I EVER SAW BUMPED INTO ME ON THE STREET-TOLD ME TO TELL TAYLOR TO LAY OFF JACK KROY'S TRIAL IF HE WANTS TO STAY WHOLE!
AND YOU TOLD TAYLOR-AND WHAT DID HE SAY?
HE SAID THEY CAN'T SCARE HIM OFF-IF THIS FELLOW SHOULD GO TO THE PEN, HE WAS GOING TO GIVE HIM A LIFT!
THAT'S THE SPIRIT-HE DIDN'T GET TO WHERE HE IS BY BEING YELLOW
WHY DIDN'T THIS TOUGH GUY GO DIRECT TO TAYLOR? HE FELT HE WAS SAFER SENDING THE SCARE THROUGH YOU. WHAT DID YOU SAY-
YES SIR...CERTAINLY, SIR?
WHAT DID I SAY?-I WAS SO MAD I CAN'T REMEMBER IT MYSELF

STEELS, MOTORS IN FOREFRONT OF PRICE SLIDE

Brokers Attribute Slow Mart to Desire of Traders to Lighten Commitments.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Stocks backed down fractions to a point or more in today's market.

Dealings were exceptionally slow from the start and only faint support for leaders was in evidence near the second hour.

Steels, motors and specialties were in the forefront of the backward drift. Rails and utilities held declines to small amounts.

Brokers ascribed the apathetic performance partly to the desire of traders to lighten commitments pending further developments at Washington.

The Paris Bourse was irregular and the French franc sharply higher in terms of the dollar. Foreign markets generally displayed some nervousness over the threatened Czechoslovakian crisis.

Bonds were mixed and major commodities lower.

Holders of the steels found little encouragement in the survey of the magazine "Steel" which reported buying of the metal continued to lag behind seasonal expectations.

"While inventories of steel consumers have been reduced materially," the review pointed out, "some having cleared their accumulations, a survey by sellers reveals that stocks are still large in the case of others."

Absence of the various branches of the automotive industry from the market, it was said, removed an important factor in demand and signs indicated scant purchasing would be done by the motor makers before mid-year at least.

LIVESTOCK

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK

CHICAGO—(AP)—(U S D of A)—The closing trade on hogs and cattle exhibited all of its recent bearishness today. Salable supplies in both branches of the trade were small but an unsatisfactory dressed meat market dictated indifference in the live trade. Dwindling supplies of fed lambs tended to strengthen the market on bovine stock late in the period.

Hogs, receipts 3,500 including 3,000 direct, largely nominal, no choice light hogs offered, undertone weak, few sales heavy and good weight butchers $7.65-7.95, shippers took none, estimated holdover 1,000 compared week ago good and choice hogs mostly 25c to 35c lower packing sows 75c to 40c off.

Cattle receipts, 300 calves none, compared Friday last week fed steers and yearlings weak to 25c lower, largely steer and yearling run all through week, weighty steers showed most downturn after some price improvement early on short supply, weeks top $10.50 next highest price $10.35 prime 991-lb. yearlings $9.85, bulk steers $8.00-9.50 undertone still bearish on weak close, strictly good and choice heifers steady, best heifers $8.25, numerous loads $8.75-9.00, common and medium grades weak to 25c lower, cutter grades steady to weak, bulls steady, vealers $1.00 lower, practical top weighty sausage bulls $6.75, vealers $9.50.

Sheep receipts 2,000 including 1,000 direct late Friday fat lambs strong to 15c higher, wooled lamb top $8.10, bulk $8.00-8.05 wooled ewes in broad demand at $5.50-5.75, shorn $4.50-5.00 for week ended Friday 4,000 directs, compared Friday last week fat lambs 25c to 50c lower, sheep in broad demand 25c to 50c higher, sheep supply small, week's top wooled lambs $8.50 paid early, closing top $8.10, bulk at close, also bulk wooled offerings for week $8.00-8.05, few medium and good loads around $7.50-7.75, top clipped lambs at $8.00, top after mid-week $7.65, bulk clippers for period $7.15-7.90, wooled slaughter ewes $1.25-5.75, shorn ewes $1.50-5.00, odd head $5.25.

PITTSBURGH LIVESTOCK

PITTSBURGH—(AP)—(U S and Pa. Dept. Agr.)—Hogs 1,000 slow, few early sales 10c lower at 8.00, several bids $8.35-8.90 for 170-220 lbs. or 20-25c lower, heavies steady at $8.00-8.50, few 130 lbs. early $8.50, sows 25c lower at $7.50 down

Cattle 625, steers and yearlings steady to weak, top $9.50 for loads averaging 955 lbs. few $9.45, other sales $7.10-8.50, heifers quoted $8.00 down; cows and bulls steady to easier, bulls $7.50 down, Calves 500, 50 cents and more higher, good and choice vealers $9.00-10.00

Sheep 1,800, firm and steady, good and choice $7.50-8.00, shorn sheep reported around $5.00, slow and scarce

CLEVELAND LIVESTOCK

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Cattle 800, slow, Steers 1,250 lbs. up choice to prime $9.00-9.50, 750-1,100 lbs, choice $8.50-9.00, 650-950 lbs. good $7.50-8.50, 600-1,200 lbs. good $8.00-9.00, heifers 600-850 lbs. good $7.00-8.00, cows all weights good $5.50-6.50, bulls, butchers $6.50-7.50

RELAYS RECORDS TOP COLLEGIANS

In displacing the old Relays and state schoolboy high jump standards with a leap of 6 feet, 5½ inches, Keith O'Rourke of Warren Harding bested the best jumps at Bloomington by three-quarters of an inch.

Ohio State's Mel Walker and Dave Albritton, former Relays champions with Toledo Libbey and Cleveland East Tech, respectively, and Allen of Michigan tied for first place in the high jump in the Indiana event at 6 feet, 4⅜ inches.

And, incidentally, it was Walker's Mansfield record of 6-2¼ that O'Rourke beat to hang up the new record.

Beats Michigan Time.

Bob Wright of Huntington, W. Va., who established a new record of 15 seconds in the high hurdles here, was four tenths of a second faster than the winning time of Keller of Michigan at Bloomington.

A comparison of the marks set in the Relays with those in other college track meets Saturday reveal that the Mansfield achievements were better in most instances.

The Relays staged Saturday was by the far the most successful ever staged—for which the major share of the credit should go to Director Harry Mehock and the citizens' committee, headed by Dr. W. E. Wygant.

The latter expressed formal appreciation today to all who aided in staging the Relays in any way, in the following note:

"The Citizens Relays committee wishes to take this opportunity to express its thanks to all those Mansfielders who contributed to making the 12th renewal of the Mansfield Relays such an outstanding success. The committee wishes to congratulate especially Director Harry Mehock, whose efforts were chiefly responsible for making the meet the biggest and best in the history of the Relays. The committee also wishes to express its thanks to the following: the persons who provided lodging for out-of-state athletes, the ground crew at the high school, all financial contributors, and The Mansfield News-Journal for devoting generous space to reporting of Relays activities and progress.

(Signed)
Dr. W. E. Wygant,
General Chairman.

CONGRESS GETS ROOSEVELT'S TAX MESSAGE

President Asks Lawmakers to Act 'Promptly' to Abolish Exemption Regulations.

"Economists generally have regarded them as wholly inconsistent with any rational system of progressive taxation," he said.

"Therefore, I lay before the congress the statement that a fair and effective progressive income tax and a huge perpetual reserve of tax exempt bonds cannot exist side by side."

"The desirability of this recommendation," the president continued, "has been apparent for some time but heretofore it has been assumed that the congress was obliged to wait upon that cumbersome and uncertain remedy—a constitutional amendment—before taking action."

"Today, however, expressions in recent judicial opinions lead up to hope that the assumptions underlying these doctrines are being questioned by the court itself and that these tax immunities are not inexorable requirements under the constiution itself but are the result of judicial decision.

"Therefore, it is not unreasonable to hope that judicial decisions may find it possible to correct it."

The president said in the outset of his message to congress that the 16th amendment to the constitution authorized congress "to lay and collect taxes on incomes, from whatever source derived."

Some congressional leaders, however, have expressed the opinion this message will ask only a study looking toward action at the next session.

Besides the request for action on taxes, and what action may be asked on the anti-trust laws, the chief threat to adjournment plans is the revised wage and hour bill, now before the house rules committee.

"That," he said, "is plain language.

"Fairly construed this language would seem to authorize taxation of income derived from state and municipal, as well as federal bonds, and also income derived from state and municipal as well as federal offices."

He then made this specific statement with regard to tax exempt government securities:

"I, therefore, recommend to the congress that effective action be promptly taken to terminate these tax exemptions for the future. The legislation should confer the same powers on the states with respect to the taxaton of federal bonds hereafter issued as is granted to the federal government with respect to state and municipal bonds hereafter issued."

Turning to the question of taxing the salaries of government employes, the president pointed out that federal taxes are not levied on the incomes of state, county and municipal employes and that the states do not tax the income of federal employes.

Give Same Treatment.

In a democracy, he said, those who earn their livelihood from the government should receive the same treatment as those working for private employers.

He then told congress.

"I recommend, therefore, that the congress enact legislation ending tax exemption on government salaries of all kinds, conferring powers on the states with respect to federal salaries and powers to the federal government with respect to state and local government salaries."

The ending of tax exemption, he said, "be it of government securities or of government salaries, is a matter, not of politics, but of principle."

On the question of taxing income from securities, Mr Roosevelt said under the present system "men with great means best able to assume business risks have been encouraged to lock up substantial portions of their funds in tax exempt securities.

"Men with little means who should be encouraged to hold the secure obligations of the federal and state government have been obliged to pay a relatively higher rate for those securities than the very rich because the tax immunity is of less value to them than to those whose incomes fall in the higher brackets," he added.

The communication on taxes was the first of two important messages which Mr. Roosevelt has proposed to send to congress this week. The other to be sent before he leaves Friday on a fishing trip, will deal, he said with revision of anti-trust laws.

NOVA—The anual East school play, "Behind the Mask" will be presented by a school cast Friday evening in the school auditorium.

Millions Are Fighting That Tired Feeling

Some people are always tired, no matter how much sleep they get. Often they are just suffering from constipation. For early fatigue, mental dullness, sleeplessness, sour stomach and its resultant bad breath, mental depression, the aggravation of most skin blemishes, can all be caused by it.

So keep regular. And if you need to assist Nature, use Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. This gentle laxative can help bring relief. Extremely important, too, is the mild stimulation it gives the flow of bile from the liver, without the discomfort of drastic, irritating drugs. That's why millions are sold yearly. All druggists, 15¢, 30¢, 60¢.

Here's Text of Roosevelt's Congress Message On Taxes

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The text of President Roosevelt's message to congress on removing tax exemptions from governmental securities and salaries:

The 16th amendment to the Constitution of the United States, approved in 1913, expressly authorized the congress "to lay and collect taxes on incomes, from whatever source derived." That is plain language. Fairly construed this language would seem to authorize taxation of income derived from state and municipal, as well as federal bonds, and also income derived from state and municipal as well as federal offices.

This seemingly obvious construction of the 16th amendment, however, was not followed in judicial decisions by the courts. Instead a policy of reciprocal tax immunity was read into the 16th amendment. This resulted in exempting the income from federal bonds from state taxation and exempting the income from state bonds from federal taxation.

Whatever advantages this reciprocal immunity may have had in the early days of this nation have long ago disappeared. Today it has created a vast reservoir of tax exempt securities in the hands of the very persons who equitably should not be relieved of taxes on their income. This reservoir now constitutes a serious menace to the fiscal systems of both the states and the nation because for years both the federal government and the states have come to rely increasingly upon graduated income taxes for their revenues.

Both the states and the nation are deprived of revenues which could be raised from those best able to supply them. Neither the federal government nor the states receive any adequate, compensating advantage for the reciprocal tax immunity accorded to income derived from their respective obligations and offices.

A similar problem is created by the exemption from state, or federal, taxation of a great army of state and federal officers and employes. The number of persons on the payrolls of both state and federal governments has increased in recent years. Tax exemptions claimed by such officers and employes—once an inequity of relatively slight importance—has become a serious defect in the fiscal systems of the states and the nation, for they rely increasingly upon graduated income taxes for their revenues.

It is difficult to defend today the continuation of either of these rapidly expanding areas of tax exemption. Fundamentally our tax laws are intended to apply to all citizens equally. That does not mean that the same rate of income tax should apply to the very rich man and to the very poor man. Long ago the United States through the congress accepted the principle that citizens should pay in accordance with their ability to pay, and that identical tax rates on the rich and on the poor actually worked an injustice to the poor. Hence the origin of progressive taxes on personal income as distinguished from general income taxes.

Tax exemptions through the ownership of government securities of many kinds, federal, state and local, have operated against the fair or effective collection of progressive taxes. Indeed I think it is fair to say that these exemptions have violated the spirit of the tax law itself by actually giving a greater advantage to those with large incomes than to those with small incomes.

* * *

Men with great means best able to assume business risks have been encouraged to lock up substantial portions of their funds in tax-exempt securities. Men with little means who should be encouraged to hold the secure obligations of the federal and state governments have been obliged to pay a relatively higher price for those securities than the very rich because the tax-immunity is of much less value to them than to those whose incomes fall in the higher brackets.

For more than 20 years secretaries of the treasury have reported to the congress the growing evils of these tax exemptions. Economists generally have regarded them as wholly inconsistent with any rational system of progressive taxation.

Therefore, I lay before the congress the statement that a fair and effective progressive income tax and a huge perpetual reserve of tax-exempt bonds cannot exist side by side.

The desirability of this recommendation has been apparent for some time but heretofore it has been assumed that the congress was obliged to wait upon that cumbersome and uncertain remedy—a constitutional amendment—before taking action. Today, however, expressions in recent judicial opinions lead us to hope that the assumptions underlying these doctrines are being questioned by the court itself and that these tax immunities are not inexorable requirements under the constitution itself but are the result of judicial decision. Therefore, it is not unreasonable to hope that judicial decision may find it possible to correct it. The doctrine was originally evolved out of a totally different set of economic circumstances from those which now exist. It is a familiar principle of law that decisions lose their binding force when the reasons supporting them no longer are pertinent.

I, therefore, recommend to the congress that effective action be promptly taken to terminate these tax-exemptions for the future. The legislation should confer the same powers on the states with respect to the taxation of federal bond hereafter issued as is granted to the federal government with respect to state and municipal bonds hereafter issued.

The same principles of just taxation apply to tax exemptions of official salaries. The federal government does not now levy income taxes on the hundreds of state, county and municipal employes. Nor do the states, under existing decisions, levy income taxes on the salaries of the hundreds of thousands of federal employes. Justice in a great democracy should treat those who earn their livelihood from government in the same way as it treats those who earn their livelihood in private employ.

I recommend, therefore, that the congress enact legislation ending tax exemption on government salaries of all kinds, conferring powers on the states with respect to federal salaries and powers to the federal government with respect to state and local government salaries.

Such legislation can I believe, be enacted by a short and simple statute. It would subject all future state and local bonds to existing federal taxes and it would confer similar powers on states in relation to future federal issues.

At the same time, such a statute would subject state and local employes to existing federal income taxes and confer on the states the equivalent power to tax the salaries of federal employes.

The ending of tax exemption be it of government securities or of government salaries is a matter, not of politics, but of principle.

A. F. OF L. MAPS EXPULSION FOR MORE CIO UNITS

Executive Council, Meeting Today, Plans to Intensify War Against Rival.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—The American Federation of Labor's executive council meets today to intensify its war against the Committee for Industrial Organization.

With all hope of peace apparently blasted by the CIO's decision to hold a constitutional convention and set itself up as a "permanent rival of the federation, the council is expected to take some action—probably expulsion—against CIO affiliates.

Most observers expected at least two unions — the Amalgamated Clothing Workers and the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers of North America—to be expelled.

Three unions—the United Mine Workers of America, the International Union, Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, and the Federation of Flat Glass Workers—were expelled at the last executive council meeting in Miami, Fla., late in January.

Now Under Suspension.

Since the unions which rebelled to aid the CIO in its drive to organize unorganized workers have had no connection with the federation for over two years, final expulsion of them means nothing. Technically, they now are suspended.

On the political front, the council is expected to support President William Green's order to all federation affiliates to withdraw from labor's non-partisan league and to set up their own non-political committees to aid the federation's friends and oppose its enemies in the fall elections.

This will mean splitting the labor vote in many states and municipalities, such as has already occurred in Detroit, Kansas City and Seattle.

It was believed that council members were ready to finance "raiding parties" among "dissatisfied CIO members, particularly in an effort to cripple CIO Chairman John L. Lewis' own United Mine Workers' union.

300,000 Chinese Troops Start Push Against Japs.

SHANGHAI—(INS)—Thirty Chinese army divisions, numbering from 300,000 to 400,000 troops, opened an offensive at dawn today along a wide front in Shantung province.

The sudden drive, aimed to forestall a renewed Japanese attempt to cut the arterial Lunghai railroad, moved northward north of Taierchwang.

'OPEN HOUSES,' MUSICALES SET

Dates for Spring Programs at Nine City Schools Announced.

Dates for spring musical programs and "open house" exhibits in nine Mansfield schools had been announced today by W. L. Miller, superintendent of schools.

The "open house" programs provide an opportunity for parents of pupils and other visitors to inspect class room exhibits prepared by pupils during the year. In some cases, "open house" will be held in connection with P.-T. A. meetings, Miller said.

Dates for the annual musicales are:

Brinkerhoff school, April 27 and 28; Carpenter school, April 29; Bowman school, May 3, 4 and 11; Bushnell school, May 6; West Fifth school, May 10; Prospect school, May 12 and 13.

"Open house" will be held at Woodland, Newman and Carpenter schools, May 10, Brinkerhoff and Western avenue schools, May 12, and West Fifth and Bowman schools, May 17.

RITES TUESDAY

JAPAN RECALLS ARMY LEADER

Former Minister Leaves Post as Tokyo Objects to Slow Progress of Jap Forces.

(By United Press)

SHANGHAI — Gen. Count Juchi Terauchi, former Japanese minister of war, has been recalled to Tokyo because of the slow progress of Japan's campaign in north-central China, unconfirmed independent reports said today.

Terauchi had been in command of the Japanese forces fighting toward the Lunghai railroad which guards the Chinese provisional capital of Hankow. A second campaign against the line now is in progress after the Chinese stopped the first one.

The same reports asserted that Gen. Shun Ushiroku, a noted tactician, had assumed command of all Japanese troops north of the Yangtse river.

A spokesman for the Japanese embassy here refused to confirm or deny that Terauchi had been recalled, but foreign military experts believed it "very possible."

It was recalled that Gen. Sugiyama, Japanese minister of war, flew from Tokyo to Peiping early this month to confer with Terauchi and to determine, if possible why the Japanese North China campagn had reached a stalemate.

Soon afterwards the Japanese opened a second offensive in southern Shantung province toward the Lunghai defense and Suchow, a "waterway" city to Hankow, but the Chinese stopped this one with several losses at Taierhchwang two weeks ago.

TELLS OF NEED OF ENLARGING T.B. PROGRAM

Dr. Rehder, Speaking at Youth Forum, Calls for Better Clinical Facilities.

The need of better clinic facilities to combat contagious disease in Mansfield and Richland county was urged last night by Dr. Roy Rehder, city-county health commissioner, in a talk at a meeting of the Community Christian Youth Forum at the Central Methodist church.

Dr. Rehder, who told of the ravages of tuberculosis and cancer, emphasized the importance of enlarging the county anti-tuberculosis program.

"We are in need of greater clinical facilities to prevent the spread of the disease, especially among school children," he said.

Enters Float In Parade.

Charles Atwell presided at the business session preceding the talk at which the Forum group decided to enter a float in the Northwest Territory celebration parade next Monday. Vivian Miller was in charge of devotionals.

Dr. Robert Brown, professor of human relations at Oberlin college, will speak at the Forum session at 7:30 p. m. Sunday at the First Presbyterian church. It will be the final meeting of the season and will be devoted to the Northwest Territory observance.

The meeting Sunday night, which will be conducted in co-operation with the Richland county Northwest Territory observance, will be the only mass meeting in the city Sunday in connection with the celebration. Charles Atwell will preside and the choir of the First Presbyterian church will sing.

A Farmer's Diary

By CALVIN A. BYERS

April 24.

ELEVEN years of fatherhood have not made me an adept with girls. Boys, now, I understand. But girls, especially sensitive, fast-growing, tall little girls, who are romping, quarreling tomboys one hour, and the next demure, sad-eyed young maidens, "standing with reluctant feet where the brook and river meet," these are beyond me.

My daughter is eleven years old. She climbed up on a chair to romp with a favorite uncle who had returned after months of absence. He looked up at her and said, "No—get down! You are too big." A moment later, cross-legged on the floor, I heard her say in a small voice, to herself, "Sometimes I'm almost sorry to grow up!"

I saw her, gay and animated, swinging in blue overalls from the grape arbor—made of iron pipe, and a favorite trapeze for the children of the neighborhood. Hanging head down, she swung her younger brother by his hands, traveled hand over hand along the length of pipe, turned a flipflop and came down lightly upon her feet.

I saw her, many times, dressed in a costume improvised from whatever was handiest, presiding as fairy queen, playing Indian or gypsy or great lady—or Snow White, with the three brothers for dwarfs.

When I am ill, she babies me—fixes my meals on a tray, bathes my head and feet. A womanly little nurse. When I am late, or overtired, she scolds.

I saw her, in demure pigtails, poring in exasperation over a baffling arithmetic; I saw her in tears over the cutting of a favorite grove; I saw her in a flowered "big apple" dress, climbing a narrow path to the top of a bluff, pausing in the crotch of a tree to wave to me, her happy face aglow with color, her hair blowing in the wind.

She cannot tell whether she wants to be an actress and an artist—or a nurse, and the mother of a big family. I cannot advise her. She will be a woman. I am only her father—a mere man.

MRS. METZ, 84, DIES AT HOME

Surviving are two brothers, Oliver Castor and dolph Castor of Lexington and two grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 4 p. m. Tuesday at the home in charge of Rev. W. W. Ralph, pastor of the Firstt Methodist church. Burial will be in Oakland cemetery.

DIES IN KANSAS

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. R. M. Slaybough, of Topeka; a son Martin, and a brother, Martin Wise of Mansfield, six grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at Topeka.

SCHUSCHNIGG DISAPPEARS

Fate of Former Chancellor in Doubt; Nazis Maintain Silence on Status.

Nazis had decided to intern Schuschnigg in a concentration camp. Probably the one at Dachau, already overpopulated with thousands of "political offenders."

Nazi authorities, however, refused to throw any light upon his disappearance. At the same time it was learned that former Mayor Schmitz of Vienna, one of Schuschnigg's closest supporters, had dropped from sight.

Inquiry elicited the flat declaration that Schmitz, at least, is not at Dachau. But it was learned that hundreds of persons arrested in Vienna in recent weeks have been sent to that concentration camp, with former Catholic and democratic politicians and army officers among them.

The fate of Schuschnigg since the Nazi conquest of Austria has long been shrouded in mystery. As International News Service correspondent in Vienna, I was one of the last to see Schuschnigg before armed blackshirts of Hitler's picked guard took him from the chancellery and locked him in Belvedere palace.

SEVEN WIN IN KITE CONTEST

Members of Cub Packs Hold Annual Field Day On Black Farm.

Seven members of the two Cub packs in the city were winners in a kite flying contest held Saturday on the Frank Black farm, as a part of the annual Cub Field day.

Winners of the kite endurance contest were James Day, Robert Lamb, Earl Wendell, Leonard Long, jr., John Stanton, Robert Black and Clifford Walker. A prize for the best built kite went to John Stanton, and Earl Wendell won the prize for the best design.

Judges of the contest were Jack Shill, Robert Saltzgaber and Jerry Snyder. The Cub movement is under the supervision of Boy Scouts of America, and is for boys who are too young to register as scouts.

FORD WORKERS WOULD BUY CARS

Ask $1,500 Minimum Wage With Promise Of Purchases.

DETROIT—(U.P.)—The Ford Brotherhood of America has formally asked the Ford Motor company for a $1,500 annual minimum wage, in return for which each member of the union would promise to buy a car from the company, it was learned today from William S. McDowell, attorney for the brotherhood.

McDowell said that the brotherhood's board of trustees had approved the plan, and it was submitted formally to Louis C. Columbo, sr., counsel for the Ford company. An answer is expected within 10 days or two weeks, he said, and further negotiations will probably be undertaken.

The proposal of the brotherhood is the first concrete result of negotiations which began last April, McDowell, said.

FACES GRILLING

American Flier to be Quizzed About Chinese Service.

YOKOHAMA—(A.P.)—Melvin Gibbon, American aviator, was in for another grilling by Japanese authorities today about his alleged activities with the Chinese air force.

When they finish questioning the 27-year-old pilot, the Japanese indicated, they will decide whether to indict him under a stringent law dealing with "impeding the public safety."

FIGHTS FOR LIFE

SEEK KIDNAPER'S IDENTITY HERE

told the authorities Hopkins said the man had held his co-ed companion in the car at the point of his gun and had turned back towards Delaware.

Corporal Sowers said the youth had told him that as he and Miss Kerr left a dance on the campus and entered their car, they were accosted by the kidnaper waving a pistol, who ordered them to drive to Marion.

State highway patrolmen from three counties sped to the campus where they partially trapped the abductor as he stopped at an intersection. He escaped a hail of bullets fired by patrolmen as he leaped from the car and fled on foot.

The patrolman took Miss Kerr back to her rooming house on the campus. She was unhurt but shaken by her experience. She told patrolmen that the abductor spoke with a deep southern accent and wore cotton gloves.

Hopkins was taken back to Delaware from Marion by highway patrolmen. He, too, was unhurt.

Earlier, according to Corporal Sowers, the bandit had accosted two other Wesleyan students, Jack Davis, 22, of Dayton and Wynsome Lyon, 20, of St. Marys, and robbed Davis of a $25 check and a $1 bill.

Davis said he was robbed as he sat with Lyon in an automobile during the intermission in the dance. He said the man, whom he also described as "small," attempted to get into the machine but they "talked him out of it."

Meanwhile Columbus police today joined the hunt in the belief that the kidnaper might be the same man who forced a Columbus motorist and his woman companion at gunpoint to drive him several blocks before robbing them of $4 in cash and the machine. The man reported the kidnaping Friday night, but said neither he nor his companion were harmed.

TRAIN KILLS TWO

HUNTINGTON—(INS)—Funeral arrangements were made today for Mrs. Frances Krey, 42, a housekeeper, and Charles Halley, 29, laborer, who were struck and killed by a passenger train in the railroad yards here.

RICHLAND WINS LAURELS IN RURAL HEALTH WORK AGAIN

Richland county, for the third successive year, today had received national recognition in the annual rural health contest conducted by the United States Chamber of Commerce in co-operation with the American Health association.

Notice of the award for meritorious achievement in public health during 1937 was received here today by Paul W. Williams, secretary-manager of the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce.

Richland county was entered in the contest by the Mansfield chamber, through its health and sanitation committee, who forwarded to the national C. of C. headquarters a complete report of the work done by local agencies in the past year to safeguard the health of the citizens in this community.

The report was compiled and the health department's achievements during the past year outlined by Dr. Roy C. Rehder, city-county health commissioner and Dr. W. E. Wygant, chairman of the chamber's health and sanitation committee.

Williams said that of the 241 entries in the contest, Richland was the only Ohio county to receive recognition. It was one of eight in the Northeastern division to receive an award.

Grades in the cotest were based on the achievements made in improving sanitation conditions and adopting precautionary health measures. These include the extent to which the water supply is protected, the safety of the milk supply, the point at which sanitation has advanced in rural homes, medical supervision for infants and the availabiilty of a well trained nursing service.

GIVES SELF UP

O. S. R. Fugitive Saves Self 18-Month Penalty by Action.

Larance Bell, 19, Muskingum county fugitive from the Mansfield reformatory saved himself 18 months of additional confinement today when he surrendered to Superintendent Arthur L. Glattke after being A. W. O. L. since last Wednesday.

Bell escaped from the reformatory's Grafton honor camp April 20. He walked into Glattke's office today to complete serving a one to 15 year sentence imposed for burglary and larceny Aug. 6, 1937.

He said he was "awfully homesick" and had gone to his home in Zanesville where his parents and two brothers who accompanied him on his return here, had urged him to "give himself up."

Glattke said because of Bell's voluntary return he will be given only six months additional time in place of the usual two-year penalty.

SCHOOL PAPERS WIN HONORS IN NATIONAL EVENT

Simpson Times, Senior High Hyphonerian Score Again in Press Contest.

Student newspapers from Mansfield Senior high school and John Simpson Junior high for the second year have won top honors in the National Scholastic Press Association of the University of Minnesota.

Highest of the honors, All-American honor rating of superior, went to the John Simpson Times, one of three junior high school publications in the country to receive the honor, Edwin Fensch, editorial advisor, of the paper was informed.

The Times scored 795 points out of a possible 1,000 to receive the All-American rating, the highest of the five awarded. The All-American rating has been awarded the Times for the past several years.

Gets Senior High Award.

The Hyphonerian, student paper at Senior high school was given a first honor rating in the contest for senior high school publications, William Fishback, editor-in-chief of the paper was notified. The paper scored 710 points out of a possible 1,000. This same honor was awarded the Hyphonerian for the past several years. Publications judged in the contest were published during the first semester of the present school year when Robert Tobias was editor-in-chief.

Four editions of the John Simpson Times submitted in the contest, two published last spring and two during the first semester of the 1937-38 school year. Gloria Guest and Lee Adams were editors of the Times during the two semesters.

The honor was the second for the Times in the last week. Several days ago the paper was awarded first place among junior high publications by the Columbia Scholastic Press association of Columbia university.

COLUMBUS TRAMS OPERATE AGAIN

Week-Old Strike Ends; Costs Business $1,000,000.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—Street car service, tied up by a strike here which lasted almost one week to the hour, was restored fully today under an agreement accepted by union carmen.

Union members voted Saturday evening to end the strike, without having gained their original demands for hourly wage increases ranging from 10 to 13 cents and a closed shop. Provisions of their former contract were continued, however, and the Columbus & Southern Ohio Electric company granted 16 minor concessions on working conditions.

CRASH INJURIES FATAL

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Horatio Pitner, 77, died in Mt. Carmel hospital here today, from injuries received yesterday when he was struck by an automobile.

Meet Tonight—A meeting of colored citizens of Mansfield will be held at 7:30 p. m. today at the Calvary Baptist church, 343 North Main street. Pastors of colored churches will be in charge.

SENIOR HIGH BAND GETS 'VERY GOOD' RATING—ASHLAND WINS

Making its first appearance in a state high school band contest in seven years, Mansfield High school's 74-piece concert band received a grade of "very good" in the annual state contest held Saturday at Ohio State university.

The Mansfield band's rating was third, out of a possible five ratings, in the class A division, according to the final results announced today. Four other bands in the class A division received the same rating.

High honor in the class AA division went to the Ashland high school band with a rating of "superior," the highest possible rating a band can receive. Second honor in this division went to the Bellevue high school band with an "excellent" rating. In the class BB contest, the Willard high school band took second honors along with three other bands, receiving a rating of "excellent."

Fifty-two bands, numbering some 4,000 students, participated in the one-day contest. Bands were classified in the various divisions according to their school enrollment. Bands from schools having an enrollment of 1,000 or more were entered in the class A division, the highest ranking division, and bands from schools having an enrollment between 750 and 1,000 were entered in class AA division.

The Mansfield band won the right to compete in the state contest by receiving an "excellent" rating at the district contest held April 18 at Bowling Green.

The band, accompanied by their director, J. Merton Holcombe, made the trip to Columbus in three school buses.

Other ratings in the class A division in which Mansfield competed, were, Fremont Ross and Steubenville, superor; Maron Harding, and Portsmouth, excellent; Western Hills, Lorain, Martins Ferry, Mansfield and Wooster, very good, and Canton McKinley, good.

be a parade through the city at 2 p. m., a brief speaking and music program at Central park late in the afternoon and a two-hour pageant at 8 p. m. at the fairgrounds, which will be presented by a company of 38 Federal Theater players.

Former Governor George White, of Marietta, one of the authors of the Pioneer celebration plan; U. S. Senator Vic Donahey and Congressman William A. Ashbrook have been invited to participate in the celebration.

The pageant at the fairgrounds in the evening will depict events associated with the Ordinance of 1787 and the Founding of the Northwest territory from which five states, including Ohio, and a part of Minnesota, were formed.

Members of the Federal players company, who are traveling with the federal ox wagon caravan through the original Northwest territory, will be met by a reception committee north of the city early Monday afternoon and about 6 p. m. they will be guests at a dinner at the First M. E. church.

En route from Sandusky to Mansfield, the caravan will stop in Shelby for 30 minutes shortly after noon Monday, but no special observance has been planned there. Instead, Shelby schools, business firms and service and fraternal organizations have been invited to join in the ceremonies in Mansfield.

MONDAY, APRIL 25, 1938.

The right of free speech is highly prized in America—also, there is no law against thinking.

A political party is not more important than the nation's welfare—it only makes itself seem so.

Under one line of reasoning, if SOME baseball players get $25,000 a year, ALL baseball players should get $25,000 a year.

Henry Ford and President Roosevelt.

PUBLIC interest this week may divide among many things but a considerable part of it now centers on the forthcoming visit of Henry Ford to the White House on Wednesday.

Just what, if anything, will develop from this meeting of the 74-year-old head of a great business with the 56-year-old President of the United States is so highly problematical as to add to natural public interest.

The one is a "typical American" who, by his own initiative, energy and ability rose from impecunious boyhood, through a struggling young manhood to eventually emerge—after middle age—as an outstanding figure in industrial America, responsible for the employment of many thousands of workers and for the profitable investment of millions of dollars in producing a necessary commodity.

The other is also a "typical American" who overcame the handicap of aristocratic origin and inherited wealth to advance to the highest public office in the United States. Never having faced the requirement for earning a dollar, or for meeting a payroll, he has developed a doctrine of idealism which takes no account of age-old obstacles and which seeks to adapt fairyland phantasies to practical problems.

Says Mr. Ford, in advance of his visit to the White House: "I shall not give him any advice."

That is a sensible attitude. What is more needed at such a meeting is a frank discussion of views on the present national situation as related to government and business, and to the even larger problem of advancing the public welfare and broadening the field of opportunity for remunerative employment of millions of men and women capable of doing some kind of necessary work.

As announced, President Roosevelt is to entertain Mr. Ford at "an informal luncheon." To Mr. Ford it presents an opportunity to renew acquaintanceship with "an old friend."

Here is an instance in which, if they are so disposed, each might learn something of value from the other.

Time to Correct Earlier Mistake.

AFTER quoting from a recent News-Journal editorial which made reference to Mansfield's futile attempt of a number of years ago to secure the protection of a zoning ordinance, the Bucyrus Telegraph-Forum comments:

"Apparently Mansfield has had as much bad luck over a zoning ordinance as it did some time ago after it felt it necessary to go out of the city to find a chief of police. Mansfield is one of Ohio's leading small cities. It is surprising to learn that there has not been enough official foresight there to adopt such an ordinance. The Mansfield council pushed the idea into the wastebasket because there were a number of individual complaints. Opposition to any program must be weighed for its value. Selfishness will always be found . . . No council can pass an ordinance which will have the full approval of all the people.

"The Bucyrus commission will meet with opposition and plenty of it, but it still remains that a zoning ordinance is a city's best guarantee against future trouble. Its business will be to plan for the city's 10,000 people and its future population rather than bow to a few complaints of today."

Reference to Mansfield as "one of Ohio's leading small cities" is appreciated. That judgment is in accord with opinion over this and other states.

It could scarcely have been expected that Mansfield people would have done so many things RIGHT without having done a few WRONG. One of the wrong things was failure to adopt and enforce a zoning ordinance.

While many of the benefits that would have accrued from such an ordinance have been sacrificed during the past decade it is not yet too late to safeguard the future by taking action now.

Mental 'Record-Breakers' Also Needed.

PREVIOUS records were broken in a number of the events that went to make up the athletic program at the Mansfield Relays, held at Senior high school stadium Saturday afternoon.

In attendance, interest, representation of schools and quality of performance, the whole affair was an unqualified success and reflects credit on director, sponsors and all who assisted in carrying through plans and caring for details.

Those youthful athletes who broke records, as well as all those others who participated creditably in the contests, and who "did their best" are to be congratulated.

"Good losers" are just as necessary in the world as winners—the important thing is to not lose hope because somebody else can run faster, jump higher or hurl the discus farther.

All that can be guaranteed to American young people is equality of OPPORTUNITY—there never has, and never can be, a guarantee of equalized ABILITY.

Whether in school competition—physical or mental—or in the competition that comes along later in life, each individual is largely dependent on his own efforts—always keeping in mind that there are many fields of opportunity for "breaking records", aside from those involved in athletic contests.

Finds Rural Slums.

GREATEST slum problems are not in the cities, but in rural communities throughout the country, says Mary Irene Atkinson of the Children's bureau in Washington.

This not because conditions are naturally worse, she explains, but because there are so few preventive institutions in rural sections. In cities you have child welfare boards, humane societies and other groups which have long given helpful service to neglected and delinquent children. But in the rural slums there is usually no organized movement to help them, or to remedy the conditions that produce them.

Keeping Step

NEW YORK financial column: "Investment trust managers are puzzled over when to buy, when to sell."

P. S.: So is everybody else.

Thus: Straws in the wind:

"Fundamental business conditions fail to indicate immediate improvement. Production remains at low level, business deficits increase, while nation's purchasing power drops to new low." —Alexander Hamilton Institute.

"Decline in manufacturing activitity is halted. Some recovery eventually in prospect. Rate of activity during remaining months of 1938 should average considerably higher than in early months." —Same.

"Federal receipts in March smaller than year ago despite gain in income tax payments. Deficit in first nine months of fiscal year less than half that of last year. Deficit below the amount indicated in budget. This improvement will not be maintained, however, with depression curtailing receipts and government planning to increase expenditures."—Same.

"Ford expansion off, is report." —New dispatch.

"America's newly awakened social consciousness still lags behind that of even the Conservative party in England. It amuses me to hear President Roosevelt denounced as a dangerous Socialist and even as a Bolshevik."—Herbert Morrison, British Labor party leader and member of parliament, speaking in New York.

"We cannot have trouble from revolution in America. We see social change occurring every day, machinery becoming obsolete, occupation obliterated. Only in America can society move on to the next stage. No impotent philosophy or ism of Europe or Asia can solve America's problem. The way to solve it is to apply more science and technology and not less."—Howard Scott, director-in-chief of Technocracy, "a system of government based on functional operation of the resources of the continent."

* * *

WHAT NEXT?

Well, what is the next step? That is what businessmen and workers alike are asking.

Obviously the federal government must take care of the 14 to 15 million unemployed, to prevent starvation. That will be done.

Spending? Government spending on actual improvements is very slow. Communities do not have the credit to match government funds, even as far as 10 per cent.

Inflation? Desterilizing gold, creating vast new credit resources at the disposal of banks and business (and, unfortunately, speculators) may create an inflation bubble that cannot be controlled.

None is a solution. Even the originators of the plans tell us that.

And the vast, fundamental socio-economic changes that are viewed by many as essential to the first step toward a solution will be fought down. Once more, the "easy" road. Where will it lead?

CONGRESSMEN.

"The letter signed 'A Voter' in your column the other day presents, I believe, the thought of millions of voters in this country. It seems what they want is Fascism or Nazi-ism.

"Your column more accurately reflects and catches the trend of thought in this country than any other I know and I read plenty of them."

Believe New Deal Support Waning

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—A faithful reader of this column expresses a doubt that Washington writers sense the countrywide reaction to New Deal policies, probably because, as he remarks, they evidently have not traveled much recently.

It is true, most of them have not.

Still, they are all in close touch with congressmen from all parts of the country. Maybe they have, consequently a better idea of sentiment in ALL PARTS of the country than any observer in one particular area.

* * *

KEEP IN TOUCH WITH HOME

Now, there can be no question that President Roosevelt has lost considerable congressional influence since his re-election. Votes in both senate and the house of representatives prove it conclusively.

Here and there a bolting Democratic legislator presumably has misinterpreted the sympathies of his home folk and will be retired at coming primaries or in November. But certainly not ALL the Democratic lawmakers are thus mistaken. On an average they must assess home sentiment with a fair degree of accuracy.

I know of no Washington writer who contends that the administration will suffer a clean-cut defeat in this year's campaign. But they generally surmise that the New Deal will lose strength, through the national selection of Republican or Democratic anti-New Deal candidates.

It is not a matter of Washington reportorial preference, but of cold-blooded reportorial judgment. Pro-New Deal reporters concur in it.

F. D. R.'s OBJECTIVES

My critic asserts that Rooseveltian objectives "are the objectives for which millions yearn."

Nevertheless, he adds, "goodness knows, his (F.D.R.'s) economic or fiscal program hardly could be worse for the ultimate welfare of the people.

My correspondent is, indeed, afraid of an "American form of fascism, brought about through the discrediting of the New Deal, all liberal measures and the triumph of reaction."

He queries:

"Who will do it? Why, the O'Connors, the Pat Harrisons, the Johnsons, the Moleys and such former liberals as Senators Johnson and Wheeler."

Wheeler as even remotely reactionary. Johnson at least is an advanced radical. I have heard Wheeler say that he wished well to Soviet Russia. Former liberals!

I used to call on such a statesman as Senator William H. King when I wanted an expression of opinion from a really liberal public man, and it was recognized by everyone that he WAS a liberal. Today he is denounced as a reactionary, because he is an anti-New Dealer.

* * *

OBJECT TO METHODS

As my critic says:

Roosevelt's "economic or fiscal program hardly could be worse for the ultimate welfare of the people.

Not a few of our so-called reactionaries appear to me to fight the New Deal not because of its objectives, but because of its plans of arriving at them.

* * *

AS STEWART SEES IT

My correspondent voices some fear of fascism, due to reaction.

Heck! Mussolini was a radical to begin with.

So with Hitler.

The Spanish revolution, to be sure, is reactionary—but financed by supposedly progressive Mussolini-ism and Hitler-ism.

The thing is:

STEWART'S APPRAISAL

Well, I class Representative John O'Connor as, maybe, a reactionary; Senator Harrison possibly as a conservative. General Hugh Johnson formerly was a New Dealer. Raymond Moley was considered a radical.

I never would recognize Senators Hiram W. Johnson and Burton K.

Disagrees With Forbes Statement.

Editor News-Journal:

I am one of the American workers to whom the open letter of B. C. Forbes, which appeared in the April 20 issue of the News-Journal, was directed.

Prior to 1929, I was naive enough to place credence in the pronouncements of men like Mr. Forbes. I believed sincerely that the American "rugged individualist" of business and industry was capable of sustaining his self appointed position of free agent in the economic destiny of our nation. Had it not been for the very human quality of greed, and the desire to kill the goose that laid the golden egg, perhaps business would not find it necessary today to propagandize government coercion, "unfriendliness" and high taxation.

Mr. Forbes' statement that were the present high rates of taxation modified, there would be a resultant increase in wages and work forces is, unfortunately, without precedent that will make me believe it could possibly occur under the present system of free competition.

During the years from 1921 to 1929 business experienced, as a testing ground for laissez-faire practices, the most ideal conditions that they could devise, with perfect freedom in making the rules. There was an abundance of all types of raw materials. There was no lack of manufacturing capacity. The excess capacity in transportation facilities was at that time chronic. There was an endless duplication of marketing and merchandising facilities. There was an excess in all forms of fuel and power. The supply of labor was at all times adequate. The supply of finance, long and short term, was excessive. The wants and needs of the nation never approached fulfillment. Rather than being taxed excessively, business was almost embarrassed at its inability to pay taxes to the federal government without receiving them back as rebates.

Despite these ideal conditions the American worker shared but little in the paradise of profit. The per capita income in 1929 was $675. Nineteen million families had incomes less than $2,500; sixteen million less than $2,000; twelve million less than $1,500 dollars. The abuse of installment buying and the employment of high pressure sales methods provided the vehicle for the boom.

The American worker during this golden period was not, as Mr. Forbes would imply, a beneficiary of the immense funds that business, under the divine guidance of Andrew Mellon, found unnecessary to pay in federal taxes. Rather, a greater share of the 13 billions of dollars (saved by ten percent of the population) of the national savings of 15 billions, went into investments in foreign bonds. The WPA worker of that period was not paving the roads of Ohio, he was paving the roads of Chile and the Argentine.

Thus, despite the pronouncements of Mr. Forbes, I do not feel that my status as an American worker would be materially improved were President Roosevelt to dematerialize and reappear as a reincarnation of Andrew Mellon.

Might not business itself be responsible to a certain degree for the present tax burden? When unemployment figures amount to 12 millions, it must be conceded that the government is presented with a problem that merits drastic action. Unemployment figures can be balanced directly against the short view of business, in that business is notoriously unable to allow wage levels to show a favorable camparison with prices.

Business, through mechanization, low wages, prohibitive prices, exorbitant finance charges, high advertising costs and a blind demand for increasing profits, has demonstrated its efficiency at filling relief lines and depleting the purchasing power of those employed. Were business to direct the same zeal toward a policy of higher wages, increased purchasing power and honest, economical merchandising practices, there would be no necessity for Mr. Forbes' appeal to the American worker.

High taxation is not altogether President Roosevelt's baby. He is merely capitulating to direct necessity. It is a problem even further removed from the lap of the American worker whose role is basically to produce, theoretically to consume, and, incidentally, to protect the policies of President Roosevelt in that he is at least concerned with the welfare of those social derelicts whose increasing numbers are a direct result of business' practices.

Young America Says—

"Open Your Eyes—and Live!"

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

DO YOU BELONG TO THE "IF CHORUS"?

Do you always look at life through the sickly green glasses of envy and self-pity?

We've all done it, in our time, but here comes spunky Margaret Watson of Pittsburgh, Pa., giving us a merry Snap-out-of-it!

"Listen—Everybody!

"Would you like to know how to live? 'But I am alive!' you protest. Ten to one you're not. Most of us simply exist—never really live. The formula for real living is so simple—JUST OPEN YOUR EYES...YOUR MENTAL AS WELL AS YOUR PHYSICAL ONES!

"Look at yourself first with those opened eyes. How are you facing life? Are you one of the IF CHORUS whose continual refrain is:

"'IF ONLY! How different things would have been if I had a good job...a boss who appreciated me, a college education, social position and lots of money ...if I could travel—'

"How often have you heard that 'if chorus?' How often have you muttered it yourself? Yet all of these things couldn't make you any more alive than you are now. It isn't where you've gone that counts, or what you have, but your OWN ALIVE ATTITUDE—and that attitude is up to you!

"College? You can study science in your own back yard, psychology from the people around you; you can pick up a liberal education from newspapers, magazines, radio, your own home. 'The world exists for the education of each man.'

"People don't understand you. Do you ever try to understand them? Or yourself? Tired of your own troubles? Take a look at somebody else's. You have a 'rotten job.' Have you ever tried to make it anything else? The boss doesn't appreciate you. Have you ever given him reason to? Do you do only the things you are told? Would you be proud to have the head of the firm inspect your work? You'd like a raise. Have you earned it? Grumbling doesn't pay dividends.

"You want to travel. Do you know your own city? The city is a filthy, crowded place, you say. There is glamour in a city if you will only open your eyes to it—skyscrapers flinging proud heads to the sun; bridges—steel spider-webs — arching over the swift mystery of a river; the noises from the street rising and blending into one great hymn to industry.

"Life lies within you, not without. Your world is only as big as your heart plus your imagination. The one brings you closer to the heart of the world; the other brings the world to your feet. No life can be lonely or ugly if the eyes are open. And no life need be!"

AND now, vital tips on that plenty pressing problem — ARE LONG ENGAGEMENTS WISE? "YES!" says Donald Reiland of Wisconsin Rapids, Wis. "Dear Elsie Robinson:

"You can bet your sweet boots that I am in favor of long engagements—at least, longer ones than we have now! When a fellow and a girl go together for a while, they find out that more than looks go to make up a person. A pretty face and a good figure don't add up to a girl's whole personality; and it takes more than swell build and curly hair to make the quarterback boy friend fit to become a life long companion.

"TOO MANY GIRLS AND BOYS GET MARRIED AND THEN START GOING TOGETHER. NO WONDER SUCH MARRIAGES ARE FLOPS!

"I for one believe that marriage is a sacred thing, something you can't change like last year's necktie or a pair of socks. And I think that Young America as a whole feels the same way about it. All the trend, these days, is toward emphasizing the importance of sex appeal, good clothes, a snappy line, etc. So we often lose track of the real things upon which marriage is based....the brain-and-heart things which make marriage happy or unhappy.

"But we Young Americans—in spite of all the false advice—have what it takes! And we're going to win out against the odds, too, despite the pessimism on the part of too many oldsters, with their cries of "Our wild youth!" So I'm all for longer engagements. They help us find out the real things of love and life."

LAST comes little Dorothy Brinckman of Clifton Station, Va., who though only ten years old, could give lessons to many an older head.

"Dear Elsie Robinson—

"I think little girls of today grow up too quick. All the little girls of today that I know try to pretend they are grown up. When girls are only ten years old in my opinion they should still be playing with dolls and playing children's outdoor games instead of trying to imitate their mothers and older sisters in using rouge, lipstick and powder. Plenty of exercise and fresh air will give us all we need of them.

"I like to read good books for girls my age and still like my dolls. I get so much fun in this I can't see why other girls laugh at me when they see me playing with my dolls. I want to play with my dolls while I am still a little girl. I think I will have plenty of time to do grown up things after I really grow up. Don't you?"

I surely do, little girl—and you can tell The Family that all the world is proud, today, of their little philosopher.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Like the doctor in "Grand Hotel," nothing ever happens when I'm around. I was in the Howdy club, a late hour Greenwich Village rendezvous, just an hour before it was held up the other morning. Three thugs came in, whipped out guns, clubbed a couple of customers, and made so much noise that the cops arrived in time for a shooting bee before they could escape. All three of the thugs and one policeman shot.

Merle Oberon

And just the day before I was talking to Merle Oberon about her Regency house in London, which she is rehabilitating in the 1803 style to which it was intended. Shortly thereafter she attended a theater and was advised by her chauffeur that a couple of jewel thieves had an eye on her. She was greatly disturbed. She and her two escorts went into the Casa Manana, where Billy Rose called in a couple of detectives and then read her a polite but sympathetic lecture.

* * *

"YOU shouldn't wear so many jewels," he advised her earnestly. "These are unprincipled times. You should be more careful."

The next day I went back to see her at her hotel and the petite star with the honey-colored hair and thin brows like two vague crescents was stunningly attired in a mustard colored dress with fur sleeves and a fur bib. I suppose it was a bib. The front of the dress was fur. She also wore a shining, napoleonic emblem at the left of the throat which was in gold of three colors and diamonds. A ring and bracelet matched.

"But don't worry," she cried. "My jewels are now safe in a vault. They are well locked up."

Miss Oberon has about a week more in New York and then she goes west to make "Graustark" with Gary Cooper. The lanky Montanan's popularity with women is as high abroad as it is here. Miss Oberon said all the women oh'd and ah'd when they learned she was to co-star with Gary Cooper. "You must give Gary a big kiss for me" she was instructed by all her women friends in London.

LATER I barged into La Conga and sat at a table under a spreading bamboo tree with two North Carolinians, Sidney Spier of Rocky Mount, and Bob Reud of Hickory, and listened to Enric Madriguera weave a veil of enchantment over a midnight crowd. Many of the town's major latin maestros were on hand to listen to Madriguera, including Xavier Cugat and Eddie Le Baron, who is probably the best dancer in New York. He was squiring Bernice Smith, of the Smith typewriter family, who is a niece of Mrs. George Washington Cavanaugh.

Timely Editorial

Insecure Social Security.

As the years go by and we see the social security system in operation, it is more than ever clear that the reserve plan of financing old-age pensions is fallacious and dangerous. The theory today is to tax wages and pay rolls and so build up a vast reserve of funds to meet the future cost of pensions. But the practice is to levy these taxes and spend the revenues to pay budget deficits. Technically the law is being complied with. The trouble is with the law itself.

Mr. Arthur A. Ballantine, former undersecretary of the treasury, expressed the point forcibly in a recent address to the American Association for Social Security. The accumulation of a reserve invested in bonds, he said, is "unnecessary, ineffective and most dangerous."

"The straightforward way to deal with old-age benefit payments," Mr. Ballantine said, "is to pay them as we go along, out of current receipts, carefully keeping the pay roll taxes for actual use for the object for which they are intended. The fiction of the great reserve, which actually operates to finance deficits and to build up an illusory factor of safety, should be frankly abandoned." —Cincinnati Enquirer.

MR. ZERO + + +

By PATRICIA WENTWORTH
(Copyright 1938)

INSTALMENT XXI

"Now to return to the letter. You say it is a tall order to suppose that the man to whom Lady Colesborough handed the envelope in the drive at Wellings may have been Sir Francis. But consider that unfinished letter."

Mr. Brook turned the leaves of his notebook and read: "'You disturb yourself unnecessarily. Neither Zero nor the agent is under the least suspicion. This rests in quite another quarter. M. L. has decided—' Now, Colonel Anstruther, you will not dispute that this letter implicates Sir Francis up to the hilt. He is addressing an associate and assuring him that neither Zero nor the agent is under suspicion. Zero may be Sir Francis himself, or he may be this anonymous associate. The agent I take to be Lady Colesborough."

"Well, I agree about Lady Colesborough. I thought that myself."

Mr. Brook resumed, "I feel quite sure that Sir Francis was cognizant of Lady Colesborough's theft. As to his being Zero, I do not think that he would have risked speaking to her on the telephone—I think his associate did that—and I am quite sure he would not have risked meeting her and talking to her. But I am inclined to believe that he received the papers from her in the drive at Wellings. For one thing, he was on the spot. He would only have had to leave the house for a very few minutes, and he had every opportunity of doing so. He and Lady Colesborough were the only two of the house party who were not playing cards."

* * *

Colonel Anstruther was obviously impressed. "Then you think that there were two of them, both calling themselves Zero?"

"I think Sir Francis was the moving spirit. Everything points to it. He was a man of dominating character. If he engaged in a criminal enterprise, it is unthinkable that he should be a subordinate, and the stake would have to be a big one to tempt him."

"Bless my soul, Mr. Brook, the man must have known his wife was a fool That's where I'm stuck. Would anyone in their senses have picked Lady Colesborough for a particularly delicate and dangerous job?"

"I think so, Colonel Anstruther," Mr. Brook said. "I think it was a very clever choice. Who is going to suspect a lovely, charming, artless young woman who can hardly be said to have a mind at all? Even if she had been found in Mr. Lushington's room, it would only have been supposed that she had mistaken it for her own."

Colonel Anstruther said, "Perhaps—" in a doubtful tone. "Then you believe Lady Colesborough's story? You believe she was meeting this associate of her husband's, and that it was he who shot Sir Francis?"

"We had better continue to call him Mr. Zero. Yes, I think so. I think he was engaged in double-crossing his chief. He had induced Lady Colesborough to open her husband's safe and abstract a package of letters."

"That is if you accept her story," said Colonel Anstruther. "I'm not at all convinced that there was anyone else present when Colesborough was shot. Hang it all, she had the pistol in her hand. You can't rule out the possibility that she shot him herself."

"With what motive?" Mr. Brook's tone was rather dry.

"One that you've supplied yourself. It's your own suggestion that Sir Francis was Mr. Zero. Lady Colesborough goes to her assignation, taking the pistol with her, and shoots the man who is frightening her. She may have recognized him or she may not. She may have shot in a hurry and only discovered afterwards that she had killed her husband."

Mr. Brooks shook his head.

"I do not think so. I cannot believe that her assignation was with Sir Francis, first because I am quite sure that he would not have risked such a meeting and could have had no possible motive for it, and next because of the unfinished letter. If he had been planning to go out he would either have finished the letter first or put off writing it until afterwards."

* * *

"There may be something that we don't know about—unknown factor—there very often is. You make your theory, and something comes along and upsets it. To my mind it's a perfectly plain case as far as the murder is concerned. The unknown factor is that we don't know what Lady Colesborough was up to. She may have been meeting someone or she may not, but I think Colesborough caught her out, and I think she shot him with his own pistol. There isn't a particle of evidence except her own to show that there was any other man there at the time—not a particle."

"Well," said Mr. Brook, "I don't agree with you about there being no evidence, because it's an undisputed fact that Mr. Somers was, if not there, at least very near at the time that the shot was fired. He says he was on the edge of the lawn at the point where the path comes out when he heard the shot. We have only his word for that. He may have been nearer—he may have been very much nearer indeed."

Inspector Boyce's chair creaked as he shifted his weight. Colonel Anstruther said "Bless my soul!" in a startled voice.

"You see," said Mr. Brook, "we have to consider what we know about Mr. Zero. I believe Lady Colesborough was telling the truth when she described the various telephone conversations and the interview she had with him in the yew walk. At this interview, more than 12 hours before the report was afterwards stolen had reached Mr. Lushington, Mr. Zero was making his plans for having it stolen. He knew what it was and when it would be delivered.

"He couldn't have known that Mr. Lushington would take it down to Wellings."

"Consider what he did know, Colonel Anstruther. He knew that Mr. Lushington was going away. He knew that the report would be delivered to him before he went. I think we may assume that he knew Mr. Lushington was in the habit of taking papers away with him. In any case, the last instructions were given to Lady Colesborough by telephone at 5 o'clock on the Saturday afternoon, some hours after Mr. Lushington had left for Wellings with the report in his possession. It is quite certain that Mr. Zero knew this.

"Now, in looking for Mr. Zero, we have to look for someone who was in a position to know all these things. Mr. Somers is in such a position. He is a member of Mr Lushington's staff and also of his family. He knew that the report was expected. He actually handled it and conveyed it to Mr Lushington. He has been under suspicion from the first, but at that time it was considered rather more than probable that the theft had taken place before Mr. Lushington left town. Mr. Somers had the opportunity of substituting the dummy envelope which was found when Mr. Lushington opened his despatch-case. In fact, Mr. Somers fills the bill very neatly.

"Mr. Lushington has complete confidence in him, but it is certain that Mr. Somers knew about the visit to Wellings, that he knew about the report, and that he knew the report had been taken to Wellings He could very easily have rung Lady Colesborough up.

* * *

There remains the damning fact that the man who knew these things was here in the grounds of Cole Lester at the hour of Lady Colesborough's appointment with Mr. Zero, and at the moment when Sir Francis Colesborough was shot."

"Bless my soul!" said Colonel Anstruther in a tone of dismay.

Mr. Brook got up and pressed the bell.

"I think we must ask Mr. Somers to explain himself," he said.

Algy Somers came into the room, and found it hostile. Colonel Anstruther was standing with his back to the fire. Inspector Boyce sat stiffly at the writing table. Mr. Brook, whom he knew by sight, looked up from a notebook and then down again It was borne in upon Algy that he was here not only to be questioned, but also to show good reason why the suspicions of the occasion should not be focussed upon him. It was a very disquieting impression.

The Chief Constable opened the proceedings.

"I should be glad if yu would repeat your account of what happened last night, Mr. Somers."

"I have made a statement in writing, sir." Algy's tone was quiet and pleasant.

"You wish to adhere to that in every respect? Nothing you'd like to add to it?"

"Nothing that I can think of, but if there are any questions you would like to ask—"

Colonel Anstruther looked past him

"Mr. Somer's statement, Boyce."

The Inspector brought it over and went back to his seat. Colonel Anstruther frowned at the typewritten page.

"You say, Mr. Somers, that Miss Hardwicke asked you to drive her down to Cole Lester. When was this?"

"Well, I was having a bath when she rang up—I suppose it was about seven o'clock. By the way, she didn't ask me to drive her to Cole Lester, she asked me to lend her my car. I wouldn't do that, but I offered to drive her, and she stipulated that I shouldn't ask where we were going."

"And when did you find out?" There was a sneering tone in Colonel Anstruther's voice.

"When Miss Hardwicke told me to make for a village called Colebrook, I guessed at once that she was going to Cole Lester to see her cousin," Algy said.

"And you want us to believe that you asked no questions?"

"I had promised not to, sir."

"Perhaps you were going down to Cole Lester in any case?"

Algy allowed himself to be surprised.

"Oh, no, sir My acquaintance with Lady Colesborough is very slight"

"Have you ever talked to her on the telephone?"

"Certainly not"

Weekly News and Pictures of Mansfield Business

NEW DAY FOR LAUNDRY, IT'S PLANNED, TOO

Orderly Arrangement of Latest Electric Equipment Takes Drudgery Out of Task.

Modern homekeeping has declared a new day for the laundry, and for the woman who works in it. Gleaming white equipment, together with expert planning and arranging of the equipment in functional sequence, revolutionizes the old-fashioned washing place from a pair of tubs hitched to the water pipes and a washer hooked up to a dangling lamp bracket, into the modern work shop—the planned electric laundry.

By orderly arrangement of the electric equipment in the planned laundry, all the physical drudgery expended in the normal discharge of this weekly routine task is eliminated. There is no back tracking of steps and no needless cluttering up of the space. The equipment is simply and attractively arranged in logical order—each work-center logically placed according to its function.

Three Separate Jobs.

In ordinary home laundering there are three separate jobs that have to be done. The first is sorting the clothes. To accomplish this a work-center, consisting of a sorting surface and sorting bins, are placed immediately beneath the clothes chute. The bins are on rollers so that they can be easily rolled over to the next logical center . . . the washing center.

This center's equipment consists of the electric washer and rinse tubs plus storage cabinets for soap suds, bluing and other necessary accessory materials The final center is the ironing center at which are located the electric ironer, hand iron and ironing board. With this orderly arrangement, completing the entire washing and ironing task in less than a day is readily possible and working in bright, attractive surroundings and altogether pleasant atmosphere eliminates the tedious and distastefulness of the laundry tasks.

Effects Savings.

In addition to the physical advantages of the planned laundry, actual money saving, sufficient in a short while to pay for the cost of the equipment and economy in the household management are effected by the elimination of hiring outside help or commercial establishments. The clothes have a longer life due to the more gentle treatment they receive and a saving comes from this. The equipment itself is inexpensive to buy and inexpensive to operate because of the efficiency of the small horsepower motors used to run the machines Savings from the low cost of operation, plus savings on clothes and outside laundry bills soon pay for the original cost of the equipment.

Great improvements in design and construction of the Westinghouse equipment have resulted in almost all automatic operations It actually reduces the work to flipping a switch and pressing a lever—electricity does the work. Westinghouse washing machines equipped with spinner dryers are characterized by such gentleness of operation and great adjustment and refinement, that they deliver clothes almost entirely dry and ready for ironing. Electric ironers are also greatly improved Their consumption of current has been lessened and to operate one means only to be seated and to guide the large sheets or baby's clothes through the ironer. Hand irons are light in weight, streamlined design, and have a specific temperature for every piece of fabric.

3 Separate Work Centers In Planned Laundry

BUY IRON AND STEEL

Iron and steel products amounting to nearly 360 million dollars were bought by the railroads last year.
